Hundred Jobless Refuse Food In Vancouver Jail

Men Awaiting Trial on Charges of Obstructing Police Have Eaten Nothing Since Noon Yesterday

Labor Council Urges New System

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Oct. 21.—Extra guards today were placed in the city jail here, where 100 unemployed, awaiting trial on charges of obstructing police, have refused food since yesterday noon. They have thrown meals on the floors or out of corridor windows and broken dishes and cutlery.

Jail furnishings were damaged as the men banged their cell doors and bunks and threw bedding about. Lanes at the rear and side of the jail were littered today with tossed-out food.

Police reported the men reluctant to obey orders. They said the man had been agitated since a number of their companions were convicted in police court and sentenced to jail terms ranging from two weeks to three months. The charges arise out of street-corner flower-selling by unemployed single transients who have been refused relief. Both the city and British Columbia government state they can not be taken care of unless the Dominion Government grants aid. They have been advised to return to their places of origin and to the prairies, where they might find farm placement.

This forenoon a total of thirty-nine had been convicted and the trials were proceeding. The men have asked separate trials, each pleading innocent, and evidence is being taken in each case.

Forty-one men have expressed a wish to be returned to their homes in accordance with an offer made by the city. These will probably not face trial.

LABOR RESOLUTION

Copies of a resolution passed by the Vancouver and District Trades and Labor Council yesterday evening asking immediate action to alleviate the position of unemployed men in Vancouver will be forwarded to civic, provincial and federal authorities, it was announced today.

The resolution was voted on after an address by Jack Patterson, spokesman for the unemployed, who said that 75 per cent of the men had been in Vancouver two years or more and were not entitled to relief in their former home towns.

Patterson asked for the support of trade unions, church, cultural and other organizations for the men.

Chiropody Act Hearings Here

Two Admit Violation; Third Contests Board's Prosecution

In the City Police Court this morning fines of $25 were imposed on W. R. Quagliotti and W. J. Fraser Jr., when they pleaded guilty through counsel to charges of advertising themselves as foot correctionists, leading to the belief they were chiropodists, when they were not registered under the Chiropody Act.

The charges were brought by the Board of Examiners in Chiropody in British Columbia.

In both instances charges of practicing chiropody without being registered were dropped after prosecution counsel agreed they should be withdrawn on condition pleas of guilty were entered in the other cases.

Minimum fines were imposed.

H. A. Maclean appeared for Mr. Quagliotti and W. C. Moresby, K.C., appeared for Mr. Fraser Jr.

Walter Owen, Vancouver lawyer, appeared for the board as prosecution counsel.

Judgment was reserved in the two charges against W. J. Fraser Sr. of advertising as a chiropodist and practicing as a chiropodist. Mr. Fraser pleaded not guilty in both instances.

DESCRIBES TREATMENT

Marion Leta Cody, Vancouver, testified she had visited the defendant Fraser's offices in Victoria where she had seen foot correction and orthopedic treatment advertised. Her evidence was similar in both cases. She said the defendant had treated her with foot manipulation and had diagnosed her ailment.

J. I. Gorosh, president of the B.C. Association of Chiropodists and secretary of the Board of Examiners, Vancouver, testified the defendant was not registered under the Chiropody Act.

Discovery Of Star Is Reported

Associated Press

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 21.—The Harvard Observatory announced today a cable from Copenhagen had reported the discovery on October 7 of another nova, or new star, in the Constellation Aquila.

The discovery, the observatory said, was another in a "most remarkable run of new stars." It was made by the Swedish astronomer, Nils Tamm, at his private observatory "Kvistaberg," at Bro, some fifty miles north of Stockholm.

Second Flight Over Rockies

Canadian Press

Lethbridge, Alta., Oct. 21.—A return flight over the Rockies from Lethbridge to Vancouver was completed today by Air Commodore Herbert Hollick-Kenyon and the technical crew surveying the mountain route for the trans-Canada air mail service.

Flying a ten-passenger plane, the party left Vancouver Tuesday, stayed the night at Cranbrook and completed the flight into Lethbridge this morning.

The plane is being used in radio tests over the mountain route.

Much Excitement As Crowd Breaks Ropes At Roosevelt Rally

Three Children Have Arms Fractured During Demonstration of Enthusiasm at South Park, Mass.

Associated Press

Fall River, Mass., Oct. 21. — Three children suffered fractures of arms and scores were jostled here today when a huge crowd greeting President Roosevelt at South Park broke through ropes as the presidential party arrived.

The three children, each twelve years old, were: William Ferreira, Estrella Pacheco and Eugene Michanaski Jr. They were all treated at a hospital.

GRAND STAND COLLAPSES

The crowd was held back by ropes before the President's party arrived, but as the motorcade appeared hundreds broke through, trampling and bruising scores. A section of a temporary grandstand collapsed, injuring others.

Little Estrella was hurt in the collapse of the stand. Young Ferreira fell from a roof of a park building, and the Michanaski boy was pushed or fell from a tree.

NO CIVIC WELCOMES

Toronto, Oct. 21.—Seizing on the precedent established when the board of control refused to tender a civic welcome to three Spanish government emissaries who arrived here yesterday, Acting Mayor W. D. Robbins turned down two other proposals for civic welcomes.

INDIAN ROBBED

Vancouver, Oct. 21.—Henry Josephs, Indian, was in a critical condition in a hospital here today with injuries suffered Saturday night when he was beaten and robbed of $15.

Rights Sought For Bus Plan

New Westminster Seeks Licensing Authority in Private Bill

In connection with a New Westminster proposal to substitute busses for street cars on certain lines in that city, Mayor Frederick Hume and members of the New Westminster Council today conferred here with Premier Pattullo and Hon. A. Wells Gray, Minister of Municipal Affairs.

The bus scheme, said Mayor Hume, was put to a vote recently and 1,450 persons voted in favor, and 1,000 against.

To grant an exclusive franchise for a period of twelve years, as proposed, the council required special powers from the Legislature and would submit a private bill to this effect, the mayor said. At the present time, the license could be given for only one year.

This morning the delegation discussed the plan with the government, but would have a further interview before the plan definitely went ahead, he said.

Trafalgar Is Commemorated

Civic Leaders Speak at Ceremony Here; Nelson's Signal on Flag Pole

Nelson's signal was hoisted on the flag pole in front of the Parliament Buildings this morning as a small crowd gathered before the Cenotaph to commemorate Britain's greatest naval victory, the Battle of Trafalgar, which was fought and won 131 years ago today.

Civic leaders eulogized the great admiral and stressed that his last words before the battle which resulted in his death, "England expects that every man shall do his duty," applied in peace as well as war.

Sea cadet, members of the Rainbow corps, formed a guard of honor at the ceremony, while standard-bearers from the I.O.D.E. massed flags around the War Memorial.

Standing on the grass in front of the flag pole on which Nelson's signal was at half-mast, Lieutenant-Governor Eric W. Hamber declared the ceremony was not only to commemorate a mighty victory, but to pay tribute to a man who died at his duty.

FOUNDED EMPIRE

Great Britain gained the supremacy of the seas in that battle against the combined fleets of France and Spain, Mr. Hamber said, and laid the foundation of her empire.

The meaning of the signal and of Nelson's words were beyond the bounds of war and the sea, the Lieutenant-Governor declared. They could be applied today in every walk of life.

The speaker drew attention to the fact that this memorial service was under the auspices of the Navy League. He outlined the objects of the league which he said were to uphold the traditions of the British navy, to promote interest in the merchant marine, and to prepare boys for the sea.

As Reports Say Soviet To Send Planes, Hitler And Duce Agree On Move

If Insurgents Occupy Madrid Italy and Germany Will Recognize Them as Government of Spain, Say Dispatches After Ciano's Talk With Foreign Minister in Berlin; Soviet Commissars Reported Ready to Rush Squadrons of Planes to Aid Hard-pressed Madrid Forces; Britain Awaits Reply to Offer to Have Navy Rescue Hostages on Both Sides

Ships Prepared To Sail at Once

Associated Press

London, Oct. 21.—The British navy was ordered to stand by today for a "mission of mercy" to rescue thousands of hostages held by both sides in the Spanish civil war.

In messages to both the Madrid regime and the Fascist high command, the government stressed fear of "wholesale massacre" of hostages. Foreign Secretary Eden instructed the embassy at Madrid and the ambassador at Hendaye, France, to press for early replies.

The messages, envisioning "terrible consequences which might ensue," declared:

"His Majesty's government feels impelled to make an urgent appeal on purely humanitarian grounds to authorities of both sides to come to an agreement for the exchange of all such hostages, and more especially for the release and removal to some place of safety of any women . . .

IN MADRID REGION

"This applies more especially to the capital where so large a population is concentrated. There would appear to be the most serious reasons to fear that in the absence of sufficiently reliable means of insuring safety for those persons, a situation might arise when they would be in danger of attack or of even wholesale massacre."

SHIPS ARE READY

Naval authorities today kept in close touch with the situation, ready to send the fleet to Spanish ports.

In a two-hour session today, the cabinet was understood to have paid slight attention to a labor demand for immediate convocation of Parliament to consider the Spanish neutrality situation. It was believed, however, the question will be aired

Russians Closely Watch Germany

Associated Press

Rome, Oct. 21. — Italy and Germany will recognize the insurgent government of Spain almost immediately after the Fascist armies occupy Madrid, well-informed sources declared today.

Agreement on Spanish policy was one of four important issues on which the nations already are in accord, it was stated here following first conversations of Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian Foreign Minister, with Baron Konstantin von Neurath, Germany's Foreign Minister, in Berlin.

The other three were reported as their stands on the League of Nations, the Locarno Treaty and Central Europe.

LEAGUE CHANGES

Authoritative sources said Germany had agreed not to return to Geneva unless the League of Nations was reorganized on lines of the Italian plan for a directorate of the great powers and until Article 16 of the League covenant, on sanctions, was stricken out.

Germany and Italy both, the report said, want a new Locarno treaty based on the old pact and both reject the British idea of two treaties—one for northern Europe and one for the south.

Rome and Berlin were reported to have agreed to divide the Danubian regions into zones of commercial influence.

SOVIET PREPARATIONS

Associated Press

Moscow, Oct. 21.—Soviet Russia, determined to succor beleaguered Spanish Socialists, has decided only the immediate dispatch of munitions can save Madrid, informed sources said today.

Soviet commissars were represented as having taken a strong stand for rushing airplanes to the hard pressed Spanish government forces.

The Russian government, these sources said, has resolved not to yield another inch in delaying counter-measures against alleged violations of neutrality by Fascist powers.

(Russia has charged Italy, Germany and Portugal with sending assistance to Spanish insurgents. Soviet demands for immediate action to enforce the non-intervention accord signed by twenty-seven nations have been refused by the International Neutrality Committee in London on the ground that the three nations must first be given opportunity to reply to the Russian charges.)

Overnight, hundreds of thousands of bright-colored posters blazed up in the Russian capital.

"Hands off Spain!" they said.

STALIN'S OPINION

While only the top men at the Kremlin know details of the decision taken by the government, enough information has seeped down to indicate Dictator Joseph Stalin feels Europe is rapidly drifting towards war—and the time to make Russia's voice felt is now.

GREAT BATTLE NEAR MADRID

Dispatches to Lisbon Say Fighting Rages Around Spain's Capital

Associated Press

Lisbon, Portugal, Oct. 21.—A terrific battle has been raging on all fronts around Madrid since daylight, dispatches to Diario Lisboa said tonight.

Insurgent artillery before the Spanish capital opened a bombardment of government lines south, southwest, west and northwest of Madrid.

At noon, cavalrymen on all fronts began a charging advance.

TOWN ENCIRCLED

Navalcarnero, eighteen miles from Madrid on the Maqueda highway, to the southwest, was encircled.

The town itself was resisting desperately.

A large number of insurgent airplanes filled the skies, co-operating in the ground advance and giving government aircraft no chance to aid the hard-pressed militia.

A government captive balloon, breaking adrift over insurgent lines, was brought down in flames by machine-gun fire.

New Plan Of Hospital Aid

Changed Basis of Government Grants Now Considered

Recasting of provincial government grants to hospitals likely will be undertaken at the coming session of the Legislature, and negotiations with the executive of the B.C. Hospitals' Association in this connection have been opened by the provincial secretary's department, it was learned today.

Hon. G. M. Weir, Provincial Secretary, said the government had not laid down a new policy yet but had the matter under advisement.

A study of 30,000 cases of hospitalization has been made by departmental experts as a means of investigating overhospitalization, the equality of present grants, and also the probable effect of the new health insurance system on hospital finances, he said.

Hospital authorities, it is understood, have been assured they will get enough money with which to carry on, whether by grants or through health insurance payments.

This year the estimate of statutory grants to hospitals is $795,000.

When the health insurance bill was before the house, it was suggested that payment of hospital bills from the insurance fund would insure the hospitals of revenue that is now uncertain and this might relieve the direct liability of the provincial treasury.

Dr. Weir today could not say definitely what action would be taken or whether the statutory grants would be actually reduced his year.

PORTUGUESE RECOGNITION

Lisbon, Oct. 21.—Portugal today accorded tacit recognition to Italy's conquest of Ethiopia when President Antonio de Fragoso Carmona accepted the credentials of the new Italian minister as a representative of "the King of Italy and Emperor of Ethiopia."

King In London Talks On Trade

Canadian Prime Minister Joins in Preliminary Conversations With British Government Looking to New Treaty

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Oct. 21.—Preliminary conversations between Prime Minister King and British Government officials looking to conclusion of a new British-Canadian trade treaty—opened by the Canadian Finance Minister, Hon. C. A. Dunning, last July—continued today.

Canada on the one hand wants to retain her present free market in Great Britain for farm products. Britain wants greater concessions than those made under the Ottawa agreements in textiles, iron and steel. Pressed by farm interests at home, Britain also is angling for quotas on butter, cheese and cattle.

However, it is emphasized in authoritative Canadian circles that the talks are preliminary, with no likelihood of anything approaching finality for weeks and possibly months to come. The Ottawa agreements will not expire until August, 1937. Reports that Canada already has virtually met British claims on textiles, iron and steel were declared to be without foundation.

Mr. King and other members of the Canadian delegation to Geneva were guests of the British government at a luncheon. Rt. Hon. Malcolm MacDonald, Dominions Secretary, presided. Two former governors-general—the Earl of Bessborough and the Marquess of Willingdon—were present.

PROVINCE ASKS BRIDGE GRANT

Federal Contribution to Fraser River Structure Proposed

New Westminster, B.C., Oct. 21.—The British Columbia Government will seek a substantial grant from the Federal Government toward cost of construction of the $4,000,000 Fraser River bridge at New Westminster, Tom Reid, M.P., said yesterday.

Mr. Reid said the announcement was received by him in a letter from Premier T. D. Pattullo.

If a grant is received, Mr. Reid said, it would obviate the necessity of charging tolls on the bridge.

Premier Pattullo today said he had nothing to add to the above announcement by Thomas Reid, New Westminster M.P.

Barring Of Counsel At Inquiry Today In Quebec Protested

Opposition Leader Says Premier Duplessis, in Having Committee Expel A. C. Taschereau's Lawyer, Acted in Way Never Seen Before in Province

Canadian Press

Quebec, Oct. 21. — Valmore Bienvenue, counsel for Antoine C. Taschereau, one of the chief witnesses to be called before the Quebec Legislative Assembly public accounts committee, was expelled today from the inquiry on motion of Premier Duplessis, who charged the lawyer with prompting his client in replying to questions.

The spectators, jammed in the small old-fashioned room, cheered as counsel left the room after the committee had voted twenty-five to six to have him expelled.

The vote was taken after Premier Duplessis had charged Mr. Bienvenue with prompting his client, resigned accountant of the Quebec Legislature, who admitted he had benefited from interest on government funds deposited in his name.

"Such a practice," declared the Premier, "is against the rudimentary elements of decency expected from a lawyer of so many years' standing, and will not be tolerated here."

PROTEST VOICED

Opposition Leader Bouchard, who was Minister of Labor in the late cabinet of Hon. Alexandre Taschereau (ex-Premier Taschereau is a brother of the witness), charged the Premier with contravention of the "spirit of British justice." He declared "it is the first time such autocratic conduct has been seen in

SEEK SURVIVORS OF JAVA WRECK

Canadian Press From Havas

Sourabaya, Java, Oct. 21.—Rescue planes and ships continued their search today for survivors of the Netherlands steamship Van Der Wijck, which went down off the Java coast yesterday with a loss of thirty-four lives.

No signs of life were found on the surface of the oil-stained sea where the vessel mysteriously foundered.

MYSTERY SAYS CAPTAIN

"The wreck of the ship is a complete mystery to me," said Capt. B. C. Akkerman, rescued master of the Van Der Wijck. "Most of the survivors owe their lives to the fact there was oil floating on the water after the vessel went down. Sharks are plentiful in these waters, but they don't like oil and so did not approach, giving time for the rescue."

Of the thirty-four missing, fourteen were stated to be Europeans, including two children and twenty natives.

The 2,633-ton ship suddenly listed and went down after there had been barely time to send an SOS.

The captain was unable to explain the disaster, but thought a leak must have developed.

Officials of the line said 267 persons were rescued.

FIGHT AT ILLESCAS

With Gen. Jose Varela's Troops Before Madrid, Oct. 21.—Fascist troops of Gen. Jose Varela, closing in on Madrid from the south, today apparently beat off a government attack to recapture Illescas.

The Madrid defence line was reported to have suffered severe losses.

Insurgent reinforcements, rushed up to the front during the height of a furious battle, seemed to have turned the tide. An official communique, however, was not issued.

LOYALISTS COUNTER-ATTACK

Madrid, Oct. 21 (Associated Press).—Socialist troops held the insurgents at bay today twenty miles from Madrid.

The defenders, reinforced by civilian recruits rushed from the city, held their positions during an insurgent bombardment and then launched counter-attacks.

The government defence line ran southeast from Illescas through Yeles, Esquivias and Sesena to the highway between Madrid and Aranjuez.

Advancing from positions near Torrejon de la Calzada, the Madrid troops attacked the insurgent lines at Azana, Pantoja, La Alameda and Anover de Tajo on the Tagus River.

"So far we have succeeded in halting the rebel advance on Madrid," exulted Gen. Jose Asensio, socialist commander.

Gen. Asensio asserted recapture of Illescas, occupied by insurgents Sunday, was "imminent."

"We will still hold strategic positions at Algodor and Castillejos (both important communication centres on the Tagus), he added.

PLANES ARE BUSY

A rain of steel over the rolling countryside accompanied the attacks and counter-attacks. Fascist planes dropped scores of bombs on government artillery batteries and the Socialist gunners replied with unceasing fire.

At Aranjuez, railroad and radio stations were targets for insurgent aviators who destroyed the buildings but failed to hit the tracks of the Madrid-Valencia railway, remaining link beween the capital and the eastern seacoast.

Squadrons of Fascist bombers soared over Castillejos, approximately ten miles west of Aranjuez, and wrecked the railway station there. The pilots hovered over the rail lines, waited for a train to pass, and then loosed their deadly cargo on the building.

By ELMER PETERSON
Associated Press Foreign Staff

Robledo de Chavela, Spain, Oct. 21.—Trapped in a mountain tunnel, a Socialist armored train was surrounded today by insurgents advancing on El Escorial.

Fascist troops tore up railroad tracks at both ends of the tunnel to imprison the train, consisting of a locomotive and an armored coach, under a Guadarrama mountain ridge.

The engineer of the train, which had attacked insurgent positions near Robledo with rifle and machine gun fire, attempted a vain dash for safety.

At one end the insurgents halted the locomotive by spreading the rails. The engine backed into the tunnel and chugged to the other end, only to find its path blocked again—this time by Fascists with crowbars and dynamite.

The train finally retreated inside the tunnel while insurgents at both ends completed destruction of the roadbed.

FOUR COLUMNS

Four Fascist columns, meanwhile, awaited the order to attack El Escorial, key to Madrid's northern defences, and only twenty-four miles northwest of the capital.

Insurgent troops moved toward the famous tourist resort, which has direct rail connection with Madrid, from Zaralejo, three miles to the southwest.

Another column was at Santa Maria de la Alameda, directly west, its artillery ready to bombard the picturesque little town where there are many priceless art treasures.

Russians Closely Watch Germany

"ONLY MATTER OF TIME"

For unless Great Britain and France can be aroused from what is regarded here as "lethargy," it is felt only a matter of time, not far distant, before Nazi troops will cross the Soviet border to realize the hope expressed in Chancellor Hitler's recent speech at Nuremberg, these sources asserted.

(In that declaration, Hitler outlined what Germany would do "if we had the Urals, if we possessed Siberia, if we had the Ukraine." The Chancellor hinted at the possibility of war "with our old adversary.")

Associated Press

London, Oct. 21.—Informed observers today predicted Soviet Russia will inform the European Non-Intervention Committee at its next meeting that she is quitting the "hands-off-Spain" agreement. Russian officials here were taciturn, however.

The fact that the Earl of Plymouth, chairman of the committee, has asked Italy, Germany and Portugal to hasten their replies to Russian charges of non-intervention breaches failed to arouse enthusiasm in Soviet circles.

"We do not really care what the committee does," said one spokesman. "Its pitiful attempts no longer are world news. Naturally, however, we are interested in seeing what the hysterical answers of the accused will be at the next meeting."

No one in authority would divulge whether Russia already has arranged to send arms to Spain in anticipation of departure from the non-intervention agreement.

GERMAN CHARGES

Associated Press

Berlin, Oct. 21.—The German charge d'affaires in London, it was announced tonight, handed to the chairman of the International Non-intervention Committee a list of alleged arms embargo violations by Soviet Russia in assistance of the Madrid government.

At the same time, it was stated, a German note in reply to Soviet accusations of German neutrality violations in behalf of the Spanish insurgents denied the charges categorically as "completely without foundation."

The documents were handed to Lord Plymouth, the committee chairman, by Prince Otto von Bismarck, the German charge d'affaires.

Birth Control Hearing In Court

Young Woman, Book Shop Owner, Cleared of One Charge in Ontario

Canadian Press

Eastview, Ont., Oct. 21.—Magistrate Lester Clayton today dismissed the first of three counts in a charge against Miss Dorothea Palmer, twenty-eight-year-old volunteer social service worker, of disseminating birth control information.

The count alleged that Miss Palmer, part owner of a book shop in Ottawa, offered to sell articles to Mrs. Dorothy Leblanc. Magistrate Clayton found there was no evidence to support the crown's contention that an offer of sale was made. The witness said she had received the contraceptive devices free and had consulted with her physician.

The second count alleged Miss Palmer advertised to persons in Eastview through a pamphlet "birth control and some of its simplest methods," instructions, drugs, medicines or articles.

The pamphlet and devices filed as exhibits bore the name and address of the Parents' Information Bureau of Kitchener, Ont.

At the luncheon adjournment argument was in progress regarding the admissability of a statement alleged to have been made by Miss Palmer after her arrest last September 14 by Constable Emile Martel of the Eastview police force.

The defence declared it intended to show pressure had been brought to bear on Miss Palmer to induce her to make the statement and contended this assertion was supported by conflict between evidence of Martel and Chief Richard Mannion of the force.

Magistrate Clayton, however, said that despite the conflict he was satisfied the statement was made voluntarily.

Miss Dorothea Palmer, tall and good-looking, was arrested last September 14.

The charges were laid under Section 207 (C) of the Criminal Code.

Arthur Hilton, Vancouver chiropodist, gave expert evidence regarding the diagnosis of the informant's ailment. Such treatment and diagnosis as given Miss Cody was known as chiropody, he testified.

In his own defence, Mr. Fraser said in practicing orthopedic massage and foot correction he did not assume the title of foot correctionist. Foot correction was a remedy for foot trouble, he said, and under the act remedies were exempted. He further claimed he only advertised foot correction as a remedy and did not advertise himself as a foot correctionist.

NOT FOOT TREATMENT

Answering the charge of his having practiced chiropody on Miss Cody, he said he did not treat her feet but massaged her leg above the ankle for a swelling on the ankle. In giving what she described as the diagnosis he had only been quoting an expert in chiropody, he said. "All my treatments are remedies and under the section of the act exempting remedies. I claim exemption," he said.

To Mr. Owen he said he sold nothing but his services and denied evidence that he had treated Miss Cody's feet. "I am an orthopedic masseuer and not a foot correctionist," Mr. Fraser said.

Both cases were remanded a week for decision.

this House. I protest against it in the name of the people of the province."

NAMES CALLED

At the opening of the hearing Premier Duplessis asked that names of witnesses be called. There was no reply to the name of Oscar Beriau, former director of domestic arts for the province of Quebec, and head of Signs of Canada Limited, which previously manufactured Quebec license car plates.

"We are informed," said Committee Chairman Alexandre Tache, "that Mr. Beriau is absent in the United States and that the date of his return is unknown."

FOR FOUR YEARS

"Well," added the Premier, "I warn those who are scheduled to appear before this committee that the inquiry will last four years and if they are going to stay away all that time it will prove costly. Furthermore, if they refuse to come back to Quebec, necessary legal steps will be taken to bring them back."

Insurgents Planning To Attack Catalonia

Seville, Spain, Oct. 21.—Immediately after the anticipated fall of Madrid, Gen. Francisco Franco will organize a campaign for the reduction of Catalonia, insurgent leaders here declared today.

The Teneriffe radio station yesterday broadcast a communique by Gen. Franco in which he promised that the campaign would continue "until not a single inch of land remains under Marxist domination."

San Diego Fire Is Spectacular

Loss $2,000,000 When Two Big Stores and Many Offices Gutted

Associated Press

San Diego, Calif., Oct. 21.—A spectacular skyline fire, sweeping through a downtown business block with damage officially estimated at $2,000,000, was brought under control today.

Thousands of persons watched 200 firemen and volunteers win a slow battle against the flames, which broke out shortly after midnight in the Whitney department store and leaped to the full height of the eleven-story Watts office building in the same block.

Street car and utility services were cut off in the area as firemen mopped up the blaze.

More than a dozen men were hurt, three seriously.

Lieut. L. S. Stanforth, fire department, received a possibly broken hip and head injuries when he fell one floor through burning timbers.

A fireman, Eddie Baum, suffered a possible skull fracture when the nozzle of a high pressure hose broke. V. Szczepanski, twenty-one, seaman attached to the destroyer Dale, sustained a head injury that naval hospital attaches said would claim his life, when he fell through the roof of the burning National Dollar Store while handling another fire hose.

TWO BUILDINGS GUTTED

The three-story Whitney store was completely gutted by the flames, with only the blackened walls remaining standing. The National Dollar Store likewise is a total loss.

Guilford Whitney, president and owner of Whitney's, estimated his concern's loss at $1,500,000, including $750,000 stock. He said this was covered by insurance.

Fire, smoke or water damaged goods in the Foreman and Clark, Woolworth and Lion clothing stores, while every floor of the eleven-story Watts Building on one side had windows cracked.

CLOUDS OF SMOKE

The towering conflagration cast a fiery glow over San Diego throughout the early morning hours, capped by clouds of smoke.

A $300,000 steel and concrete annex being built for the Whitney store sustained slight damage from the leaping flames.

For hours, as the fire defied control, the water pressure dropped, alarming the fire fighters. The city was forced to tap an additional reservoir.

The fire apparently first broke out in a second-floor stock room in Whitney's. Its cause was not determined.

SPAIN MINISTERS' WIVES IN FRANCE

Canadian Press from Havas

Toulouse, France, Oct. 21.—The wives of President Manuel Azana of Spain and the former Spanish Premier Jose Giral Pereira, arrived here today from Alicante.

Their arrival caused a stir in this southern French city, due to report indicating the Spanish insurgents are about to enter Madrid. President Manuel Azana and Jose Giral Periera, a minister without portfolio in the leftist cabinet, arrived suddenly at Barcelona from Madrid on Monday.

Cornwall, Ont., Oct. 21.—Leaders of the workers at the time of last month's strike at Courtaulds Canada Limited were still out of a job, although more than 1,600 employees were back at work, W. V. Kenyon, plant works manager, told the Turgeon royal commission on the textile industry today when it resumed hearings into conditions at Courtaulds'.

Kenyon, who came from the company's north Wales plant four months ago and was in charge throughout the industrial dispute here, traced the break back to Mamie Lavigne, who, complaining she was unable to do as much work as required of her, stopped her machines and walked out of the plant, taking three other girls with her.

Kenyon's information was they had gone to discuss their complaint with Arthur Laverty, president of a union then in process of formation.

"Their complaint was one that was ultimately adjusted, was it?" asked Commission Counsel J. C. McRuer

"Yes," Kenyon replied.

NOT TAKEN BACK

Asked if Laverty was taken back after the strike, Kenyon said no, and not only Laverty but several others prominent on the employees' behalf were still out of jobs.

Counsel McRuer suggested there was some policy underlying this move.

"You have actually discriminated against the leaders of the strike," he said.

"No, we have a definite arrangement with the workers' representatives as to how they should be re-employed after the strike," the witness said.

This "arrangement" followed taking of a ballot asking employees' opinion on the point of sharing the work. Laverty and the others had not been taken back because there was no work for them, he said. There were 880 men and 671 women now working, he added.

LOCAL YOUTH SETS RECORD

Seattle, Oct. 21.—William Melville, twenty, of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, stationed at Work Point Barracks, Victoria, B.C., was resting up at his grandmother's home today after a bicycle ride in which he averaged thirteen miles an hour here from Vancouver, B.C.

He arrived at the home of his grandmother Mrs. Anna Melville, just twelve hours after leaving Vancouver, but out of that must come the forty minutes he was detained by U.S. immigration officers at Blaine. They were not certain eighteen dollars cash was enough for such a trip, but finally let him through.

Melville said he would pedal back, too, but much more slowly as it is more uphill going north.

Belgium Fears Clash of Groups

Rexists Plan March of 200,000 at Brussels During Big Socialist Meeting

Canadian Press From Havas

Brussels, Oct. 21.—Two hundred thousand adherents of Belgium's militant, Fascist-inclined Rexist Party, are organizing to march on Brussels next Sunday, it was learned today.

Coincidental with the Rexist march, the Socialists will hold a huge meeting in the capital.

Serious clashes between the two factions are feared.

A committee of Premier Paul van Zeeland's cabinet was convoked today to consider banning both demonstrations.

Paris, Oct. 21.—Charges of direct collusion between Leon Degrelle, youthful Belgian Fascist leader, and German Nazi leaders were published here today.

Both L'Oeuvre and Le Petit Parisien claimed to have proof Degrelle was in Berlin September 27 and consulted with officials of the German Foreign Office.

They also declared the German government knew more than two weeks ago of Belgium's plans to announce its new neutrality policy and took an active interest in supporting Degrelle's Rexists and Flemish nationalists, who championed the neutrality policy.

London, Oct. 21. — The British naval commander-in-chief in the Mediterranean had orders today to prepare to remove thousands of hostages from Spain.

Exactly how many hostages the navy may have to remove — if the British offer to both the Madrid government and the insurgents is accepted — is still uncertain. Unofficial advices estimate the hostages held by the Madrid government at 8,000, of whom approximately 1,000 are women. The hostages held by the insurgents are believed to be less numerous. The British government is endeavoring to obtain exact figures.

No reply to the offer has yet been received.

REPLIES AWAITED

Meanwhile uneasiness grows over the non-intervention pact. None of the three countries concerned—Italy, Germany and Portugal—has yet replied to Soviet charges they are violating the pact.

"One cannot avoid the conclusion," writes the diplomatic correspondent of The London News-Chronicle, "that these three governments are quite deliberately postponing a reply to the Russian accusations in the hope the whole situation will change if Madrid falls within the next few days."

The question the average man is asking is this: If Madrid falls what will Russia do?

BLUM IN CONFERENCES

Associated Press

Paris, Oct. 21.—Tales of spreading anarchy, borne by refugees streaming into France from Spain, today spurred secret conversations between Premier Leon Blum and the Argentine Foreign Minister, Carlos Saavedra Lamas, on the possibility of evacuating the refugees by air.

With reports indicating the last days of the Socialist Madrid regime may be at hand, Saavedra Lamas, whose country has been influential in freeing Spanish political hostages, conferred repeatedly with the French Premier.

Officials maintained a careful silence concerning the conversations, but authoritative sources indicated the chances of bringing endangered persons into France by airplane were discussed.

MANY CROSS BORDER

Refugees were pouring into France in large numbers through Catalonia, one of the last avenues of escape for government supporters from the Fascist encirclement of Madrid.

Several planeloads of refugees arrived at Perpignan, asserting they had obtained authorization to leave Spain only over the repeated protests of remaining government supporters. Others fled through difficult mountain passes.

Many of them said the "bloody days of reprisals" were beginning, with uprisings against extreme leftists in some quarters and roundups of rightists in others.

Puffs Balloon To Save Lung

Associated Press

Scottsbluff, Neb., Oct. 21.—Every fifteen minutes as he lies in a hospital here, Alfred Malchow, twenty-one, blows up a toy balloon. He does it in an effort to recover from injuries suffered in an automobile accident September 29 and from a complicated surgical operation which followed.

The exertion of inflating the balloon is to keep Malchow's left lung expanded, and physicians said today they believed he would recover unless he should develop pneumonia.

Trafalgar Is Commemorated

"This is a mad world we live in," said Hon. Dr. G. M. Weir, Minister of Education. "This is an age of conflict, disorder and transition. The civilized nations of the world are feverishly spending more and more money on war."

The modern world presented a paradox, Dr. Weir said. There was a great deal more tolerance and good than ever before, but there was still stealing, crime, sin and disease.

"We wish we could abolish sin—then we could do without churches and clergymen, but they are still with us," he said.

"We wish we could abolish disease—but it seems that we will have hospitals, doctors and nurses for a long time yet.

"In the same way, if nations would abolish war, we could do without armies, navies and cadets — but we have to face cold realities, and we know that nations will not abolish war."

Alderman D. J. Hunter traced the life of Nelson, who started in the navy as a boy of thirteen. He became a captain when less than twenty-one

The Battle of the Nile was won by him when he had his first independent command of the British Fleet, and for this victory he was made Lord Nelson of the Nile.

Mr. Hunter believed he died as such men would wish to die. Turning to the cadets, the alderman said: "In all probability you will never have such an opportunity as Nelson, but strict attention to duty will fit you for whatever comes your way."

Brigadier D. J. Macdonald, officer commanding Military District No. 11, and Commander J. E. W. Oland, R.C.N., commanding officer of H.M.C.S. Naden, were present.

Following the ceremony Nelson's signal was pulled to the masthead, and with their band playing, the sea cadets marched off.

Fleeing Man Is Slain By Police

G. White, Accused of Shooting at Constable, Shot in Saskatchewan

Laird, Sask., Oct. 21. — Cut down by police bullets as he prepared to fire at his pursuers, George White, fugitive from justice, was killed near here late yesterday. Posses had combed the area, seventy miles southwest of Prince Albert, all day for the man who had wounded Constable J. E. Williams after he had locked the Royal Canadian mounted police officer in his cell.

"One-shovel Shekels" For Volunteer Workers

Kelowna, B.C., Oct. 21. — Kelowna has its own slant on Prosperity Certificates, the "one-shovel shekel" paid out to all who work a full shift on the fourteen-mile Kelowna-Naramatta road which is being built by citizen muscles.

The "shekel" is made out on the "Okanagan Bank of Community Service," is not negotiable or transferable, but is good for a weekly prize drawing.

Residents of Kelowna, professional and business men included, have labored for more than a month to build a road to bring the city into direct route with country to the south. They are now three miles on their way. A complete list of volunteer workers has been kept and a "shekel" pays for a full shift or one half-day of work.

Considerable amounts of rock are making progress slow and dynamiting will be necessary over the next two miles

Part of the road will pass through a canyon with Indian writings and pictures on walls that tower 1,000 feet on either side.

WARM WORDS IN U.S. CAMPAIGN

Secretary Ickes Says Landon Was "State Socialist" Only a Year Ago; Terre Haute, Ind., Citizens Bar Browder From Air

By H. M. PETERS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

New York, Oct. 21.—Acrimony bit deeply into the United States election campaign today with a candidate for the presidency "mobbed," and another charged with having been a "state socialist" and replying to the claim.

A break in the alliance that created the Union Party and controversy surrounding Senator Vandenberg's "fireside chat" over the air with President Roosevelt's "voice" on records added to the tense political situation while announcement was made of creation shortly of a new organization to fight communism.

Earl Browder, Communist, one of the six men seeking the highest office in the country, was prevented from speaking over the air in Terre Haute, Ind., yesterday evening when citizens blocked front and rear entrances to a radio station.

ICKES IS HEARD

Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes said Governor Alf. M. Landon, the Republican candidate, was a "state socialist" a year ago. As Governor of Kansas he had advocated state owned telephones and natural gas distribution systems, Ickes said.

In Los Angeles, where he delivered a major speech, the Republican nominee replied that he had "always been in favor of public ownership as a gun behind the door in the adjustment of proper and fair utility rates." Lower gas rates had been obtained in Kansas without resorting to the "last weapon" of public ownership, he said.

The clergyman who claims successorship to the late U.S. Senator Huey Long as head of the Share-the-Wealth movement, announced in New York a $1,500,000 anti-communism organization would be formed immediately after the election. He was Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith. Promptly from Chicago came word that the Union Party and the Townsend National Recovery Plan organization had severed relations with him.

RADIO LIMITS

Senator Vandenberg, who was regarded as a probable Republican candidate this year before Mr. Landon's choice, said he regarded his "chat" earlier this week with the President as the opening of a new election technique that would become practice later. The larger question involved in the cutting of his address off the air, he said, was "whether there should be a rule in free America which could be construed against the faithful presentation of the first hand truth to the American people."

BAD EGGS THROWN

Terre Haute, Ind., Oct. 21.—Citizens blocked both front and rear entrances to radio station WBOW here yesterday evening, hurled rotten eggs at Earl Browder, Communist candidate for the U.S. presidency and prevented him from entering the station to make a scheduled radio campaign speech.

Browder left the radio station after he had been showered with rotten eggs and returned to his hotel, where he sent word from his room he would not make any further attempt to give the speech last night, but would take the matter up in the courts today.

Montreal Thins Out Narcotics Peddlers

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Oct. 21.—The illicit narcotic traffic in Montreal has been reduced to an absolute minimum, but it is still thriving among the Chinese in Vancouver, according to the annual report of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

In the Montreal area, with illicit drugs practically unprocurable, the police have been active in attempting to stop the forgery of prescriptions by narcotic addicts. At times addicts succeed in stealing a prescription pad from a doctor's office, obtain a facsimile of his signature and pass prescriptions on local druggists.

New Minister Takes Up Duties

Sir Herbert Marler, Speaking For Canada, Presents Credentials at Washington

Associated Press

Washington, Oct. 21.—Sir Herbert Marler, new Canadian minister to the United States, presented his credentials to President Roosevelt yesterday and expressed the Dominion's earnest desire that "the cordial and harmonious relations which have prevailed for so long a period between the governments and people of the United States and Canada shall ever be maintained and strengthened."

He voiced "particular gratification" over commercial relations brought about by the conclusion last year of the Canadian-United States trade agreement.

"Permit me to say at once," President Roosevelt replied, "that the government of the United States heartily reciprocates the desire of His Majesty's government in Canada that the cordial relations, which have come to be regarded as axiomatic between our two countries, shall ever be maintained and strengthened." The President expressed pleasure over the warm welcome he received at Quebec during his brief visit there during the past summer.

Associated Press

Detroit, Oct. 20.—Dr. Hugo Freund, physician attending United States Senator James Couzens, announced at 11.30 a.m. today the Independent Republican's "condition is unchanged," and "he is seriously ill."

The sixty-four-year-old senator is suffering with uremic poisoning.

MINING CLAIMS CASE IS HEARD

Supreme Court of Canada to Rule on Ownership of Lake Athabasca Claims

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Oct. 21.—Ownership of certain mining claims, known as the Anchor Group at Beaver Lodge, Lake Athabasca, is the issue in an appeal heard by the Supreme Court of Canada on which judgment was reserved yesterday.

William S. MacPhee and Elmore H. Pointer of Edmonton are seeking a declaration that the staking of the claims by Tom Box, also of Edmonton, is null and void. They sued Tom, Jean and Elizabeth Box, the Sterling Collieries Company Limited, who took a half interest in the claims, and the Saskatchewan Minister of Natural Resources.

Box and some others staked the claims in 1930, but they lapsed because the necessary assessment work was not done on them. In 1934 he restaked them, but used the old posts and made a new inscription on them. MacPhee also restaked the claims, knowing of the situation, applied to have his claims recorded, but was refused by the mining recorder.

At the trial Mr. Justice McDonald held MacPhee, not having a recorded claim, had no status to bring the action and dismissed his suit. The Court of Appeal of Saskatchewan upheld this decision.

Bishop on Way To Nelson, B.C.

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, Oct. 21.—En route to the newly-created diocese of Nelson, B.C., Rt. Rev. Martin Johnston, the youngest bishop of the Roman Cathlic Church in Canada, passed through Winnipeg yesterday.

He will be enthroned in the Nelson Cathedral on Thursday by Most Rev. William Duke, Archbishop of Vancouver. High church dignitaries are accompanying the youthful bishop for the ceremony.

He was consecrated a bishop last September 29 in St. Michael's Cathedral, Toronto. He is only thirty-seven years of age.

Budget Voted By Quebec House

Canadian Press

Quebec, Oct. 21.—The Quebec Legislative Assembly yesterday adopted Provincial Treasurer Fisher's budget, which estimated a deficit of more than $18,000,000 during the next fiscal year. The budget was delivered to the House last Friday.

Peter Bercovitch, Liberal, Montreal-St. Louis, offered brief criticism of the report, but apart from his arguments there was little discussion. The House, after adopting the budget, formed into ways and means committees to study separate budget items.

GAINS IN BATTLE ON INFLUENZA

U.S. Public Health Says Rockefeller Institute Has Reported Success With Vaccine in Group of Tests

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

New Orleans, Oct. 21.—The first vaccine for influenza has been tried on thirty human beings with 100 per cent success at the Rockefeller Institute in New York.

This fact was announced to the American Public Health Association here today as the "preliminary skirmish" in what at present promises to be a successful campaign to mitigate the ravages of influenza and possibly to abolish the great influenza epidemics as effectively as yellow fever and black death.

One obstacle still puzzling the Rockefeller Institute medical scientists is nearly indisputable proof, recently found, that influenza is not one disease, but possibly two or three.

Dr. Thomas Francis of the Rockefeller Institute described the influenza vaccine. It is made in the laboratory from highly purified fly virus, the "agent" which causes the disease.

OUTBREAK IN CANADA

An outbreak which medical men diagnosed as influenza in Canada and the United States in February and March of this year, Dr. Francis said, was shown by Rockefeller tests to be a different type of influenza from previous epidemics.

"It appears most likely," said Dr. Francis, "that the 1936 epidemic was due to a different disease entirely. It appears that influenza may be several different diseases which cannot yet be distinguished from each other."

Influenza does not seem to be connected with common colds. In the Rockefeller laboratories, Dr. Francis said, the viruses which cause influenza and colds could not be grown under the same conditions.

FRUIT SHOW AT LIVERPOOL

Canada Will Share in Contests in England Next Week

Canadian Press

London, Oct. 21.—Preparations are going forward for the opening at Liverpool next week of the sixteenth annual Imperial Fruit Show, which will be opened at Renshaw Hall by Lady Maureen Stanley.

Nearly 2,000 exhibits have been arranged. One class is open to growers and exporters in the British Empire as a whole, with prizes amounting to $1,000. Another class is open only to growers or associations of growers in Canada who are bona fide apple exporters to the British market.

The first prize in the latter class comprises a gold cup and $20, while there is a special prize of a silver cup presented by his widow and daughter as a memorial of the late John Howard, for many years agent-general of Nova Scotia in London.

There are large sections at the show both for canned products and honey. Entries have been received from Canada, Australia, South Africa, the West Indies, Great Britain and northern Ireland.

Birmingham Elects Conservative As M.P.

Canadian Press

Birmingham, Oct. 21.—The Conservative Party yesterday retained the Erdington Division of Birmingham when Squadron-Leader J. A. C. Wright was elected to the House of Commons in the by-election made necessary by the death of J. F. Eales, K.C.

Squadron-Leader Wright polled 27,068 against 20,834 for C. J. Simmons, Labor, in a straight party fight. His majority of 6,234 compared with a majority of 9,950 polled by Eales against Simmons in the general election of 1935, but in that year there was an independent candidate, most of whose votes yesterday apparently went to Simmons.

PROSECUTOR IS ACCUSED

Associated Press

Detroit, Oct. 21.—Chester P. O'Hara, assistant attorney-general of Michigan, presented six affidavits in court today charging that Duncan C. McCrea, Wayne County prosecutor, who has been active in several cases against Black Legion members, was himself a member of the hooded night riders.

McCrea has denied such charges several times.

Liquor in U.S. Historic Tomb

Associated Press

Richmond, Va., Oct. 21.—Bootleggers have been using the tomb of John Marshall, first Chief Justice of the United States, to cache their liquor, according to Thomas B. Martin, superintendent of the Shockoe Cemetery.

He said inspectors, noting the square box-like tomb had a loose slab, pulled it aside to reveal the cache. Other tombs in the vicinity were also used, he said.

The superintendent said he thought the bootleggers had selected the Marshall tomb because many tourists visit it and their presence would not attract attention.

Campaigners Going to Court

Associated Press

Washington, Oct. 21.—Harry L. Hopkins, Works Progress Administrator, was ordered by the federal district court here yesterday to show in court Monday why he should not be compelled to open records of his office to New Jersey Republican leaders.

Charging a "breach of trust" and that WPA records had been used by the Democratic administration for campaign purposes, a group of the New Jersey Republicans asked the court to direct Hopkins to make the WPA's files available to them.

The petition charged that officials of the present administration were guilty of waste and extravagance.

Britain-India Trade Agreement

Canadian Press

London, Oct. 21. — The Board of Trade yesterday announced the British government and the Government of India had agreed, pending conclusion of a new trade agreement to replace the Ottawa agreement of 1932, due to terminate November 13 next, that the latter shall continue in force temporarily.

SILVERWARE DUTY RULING

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Oct. 21.—More than a score of catalogues from mail order, wholesale and manufacturing houses were filed with the Tariff Board here today to enable it to reach a decision of the meaning of the word "silverware." Definitions of the standard dictionaries and encyclopaedias also were produced. The board reserved judgment.

On the board's decision will depend whether silver-plated articles from Great Britain will come into Canada under a 17½ per cent tariff as officials of the National Revenue Department contend they should, or 30 per cent as the counsel for the silversmiths in Canada argue. It depends on which item of tariff silver-plated articles are to be placed.

Fascism's Sinister Shadow

FROM ROME TODAY COMES THE report that Italy and Germany will recognize the insurgent government of Spain almost immediately after the Fascist forces occupy Madrid. We are told by "well-informed sources" that agreement on this policy was said to be one of the four important issues on which these two nations reached accord after the first conversations between Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italy's Foreign Minister—he is, by the way, Premier Mussolini's son-in-law—and Baron Konstantin von Neurath, Germany's Foreign Minister, in Berlin.

What may emerge from this somewhat clandestine meeting of Italy's and Germany's Foreign Ministers is not an easy matter on which to speculate until developments furnish a clarification. Back of what is becoming clearer in the continental European political realm, however, is the determination of Soviet Russia to prove, by what means as yet has not been set forth, that both Fascist states have given material and moral support to those forces in Spain which have made up their minds to overthrow a government elected on the democratic principle followed in British countries.

The London News-Chronicle poses the pertinent inquiry: "If Madrid falls, what will Russia do?" Another question emerges—are Italy and Germany trying to twist the Russian bear's tail? Do they think now is the time, in view of what seems to be an inevitable Fascist victory in Spain, to pitch a Fascist-Communist battle in Europe—always, of course, with the prospect, and hope, of Japanese irritation thousands of miles away?

The immediate prospect is anything but a cheerful one. But a Mussolini-Hitler-Franco compact had better take into consideration the attitude Great Britain, France, and Belgium, despite the latter nation's recent neutrality decree, might be forced to take.

Fundamental Economics

SIR NORMAN ANGELL—WELL REmembered as the author of "The Great Illusion"—drove home some hard truths when he addressed the National Liberal Club in London the other day and wanted to know whether democracy could be intelligent. His answer to the main question was "Yes, if it will," but he was unsparing in his analysis of the way in which democracy is enslaving itself today.

The distinguished author and international critic of dealings between nation and nation quoted Reichsfuehrer Hitler's dictum that a leader must feed the vanity and hate of his people, and showed how the reason of British electors had been sidetracked by emotion in the khaki election after the war, so that they ignored obvious truths about the impossibility of making Germany pay.

Sir Norman recalled other post-war leaders who had given their peoples something to hate—Hitler the Jews, De Valera the wrongs done to Irishmen centuries earlier, Mayor Thompson of Chicago the British. It was all a reflection on the educational preparation for democracy which was given to the people.

The first thing necessary, Sir Norman pointed out, was to make man aware of his own shortcomings. One had to start with the axiom that the voice of the people was usually not the voice of God but the voice of Satan. Nowadays millions of youths were going into the streets of Europe demanding that the right to dispose of their own destinies should be taken away from them. They were asking to be taken into slavery. Millions in Germany were asking also to be deprived of the right to hear the facts.

Until one heard the other man's point of view one could not know whether one was right. If we did not have liberty of discussion we should produce a race of men who would not know truth when they saw it. The reason was, continued Sir Norman, that we had not in the past endowed democracy with the right kind of education. We should encourage the mass of men to ask "What do we want? What are parties and states organized for? What is it all about?"

Sir Norman, as The Manchester Guardian's London correspondent observes, recalled his own education, the dates and the number of Henry VIII's wives—(about which he was never quite sure)—and the incomprehensible formulae for the use of the subjunctive and the absence of any information about the money in his pocket.

"We learn the mechanism of the heavenly bodies," Sir Norman said, "but not the mechanism of society. Whether we believe that the earth is round or flat the ships will not stop sailing to New York, but if we think that nations can go on buying our goods while we never buy theirs the ships will stop."

Many "Ifs"

IT TAKES A LITTLE TIME FOR US of the New World to accustom ourselves to Reichsfuehrer Hitler's condescension. Only the other day he made it quite clear that those nations which think they can afford democracy are "welcome to it." Not only that, he does not propose to stand in their way; he might even consider democracy for the German people—ah, here comes the rub!—if he had all the colonies and raw materials to pay the high cost of democracy.

Says a New York Times commentator: "Almost every day now, Hitler hints to the world how good he would be if conditions were right. If he had Russia's Urals and Ukraine he would make Germany a paradise. If he had the British colonies and the East Texas oilfields he might listen to democracy. If, in general, he had everything that he wanted and if everybody else kindly got off the earth, why, Hitler would be so good it would be a pleasure and a privilege to live in the same world with him. But these are big Ifs."

One of these days, and perhaps in the not distant future, Der Fuehrer may wake up to the fact that while he has made a fairly good job of his climb to fame, he has overlooked some fundamentals. True, he seems to be able to claim complete domination over the German people; but these very same people are still the people who were behind Stresemann when he helped to negotiate and finally signed, eleven years ago, in behalf of his compatriots, the pacts of Locarno. There are still many millions of Germany's 67,000,000 who believe that Nazi-ism does not furnish the best or quickest way out of a bad social and economic mess. Meanwhile, however, they are keeping their thoughts strictly to themselves.

It Was Ever Thus

ADDITIONAL PROOF THAT THE more human beings change the more they are the same seems offered in an archeological discovery just announced.

A sculpture found in an ancient Mayan Indian city of Guatemala portrays a public meeting. And the sculptor who carved this work more than a thousand years ago might very well have had a modern political rally or lecture as his subject.

For among the figures shown in this lintel is the pompous speaker, demanding attention; one of the audience poking another as if asking what it is all about; two gentlemen arguing vigorously between themselves; and two other men slumped listlessly, apparently engrossed in their own thoughts.

Real Devotion

NEWS DISPATCHES YESTERDAY brought word of the death of one of the world's outstanding women, Mrs. Anne Sullivan Macy. She was outstanding not because of any great accomplishment in the ordinary channels through which women achieve greatness, such as in the scientific, business, or political world, but because of her wonderful devotion to a handicapped girl.

For half a century Mrs. Macy was the guide, philosopher and friend of Helen Keller. Born deaf, dumb and blind, Miss Keller rose to intellectual eminence through the patient teaching of Anne Sullivan, who did not even allow marriage to interfere with her devotion to her protege. Her love for the afflicted girl enabled her to perform miracles.

She taught Helen Keller to "read" by writing words on the blind girl's palm with her fingertips; she taught her to speak and enabled her to graduate from Radcliffe College.

By a curious turn of fate, Mrs. Macy lost her sight a few years ago, and her erstwhile pupil became her teacher, instructing her in Braille.

The story of their devotion is an epic which will live long after Helen Keller has followed her mentor and friend to her last rest. It is one of those shining examples of faith which inspire and hearten those, who in this work-a-day, mercenary world, are prone to be skeptical of altruism.

Letters to the Editor

THIS NEWSPAPER AT ALL TIMES welcomes correspondence of a constructive nature to appear under "Letters to the Editor," but it again reminds its numerous contributors that it is essential all communications be as short as possible, written on one side of the paper, and with ample space between lines. A point to remember, moreover, is that the simple sentence to give expression to an opinion or to state a fact is always the best.

Notes

Hear the man worrying about the debt that will burden our grandchildren? Well, he has no intention of having any grandchildren. He may want to know what posterity has done for him.

"Small wives can 'bully' their husbands, but big wives are nearly always 'bullied,' even by small husbands." This is the opinion of Rt. Rev. Frederick Deane, Bishop of Aberdeen, who has just been advising Shetland Islands schoolboys to select a bride about five feet in height, for he says by following his advice they will be able to "live good, useful and long lives." Now the venerable bishop has started something.

Thirteen thousand men are now engaged in various branches of mining operations in British Columbia. In metal mining, employment was given to 7,322 men last year. Smelting accounted for 2,741 more, and in the coal industry 2,990 men were working. As an employer of industrial labor, mining stands second to lumbering, which gave jobs to 20,335 men in 1935. The third largest employment factor was food products, with 8,031 employees, contracting being a close fourth, with 7,675.

British Columbia's water-borne shipments of lumber to the markets of the world for the first nine months of the current year show an increase of 36 per cent over those for the corresponding period of 1935. Now let us hope that nothing will happen in the United States presidential elections next month that may result in the abrogation of the reciprocal trading treaty between the Dominion and the neighboring republic—and that the Ottawa pact with Great Britain, with its great benefit to our forest products sales in the United Kingdom, will remain intact.

LOOSE ENDS

Life is dead and with it an age—And the new one is much more intelligent and smart—We build for eternity or for some ten years—the Legislature is on our doorstep again—but how different it seems.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

LIFE

ANOTHER American phenomenon which future students of these times will find significant is the death of Life, the humorous paper which amused America for nearly fifty years and was almost as much of an institution on this side of the Atlantic as Punch on the other. Life has been sold to Time, which is using its name only on a new magazine of weekly news pictures, but Life as it used to be, exists no more. It couldn't stand the competition of the New Age because it belonged to the old one.

If anything were needed to show you that it is, indeed, a new age, that the pre-war world is dead, the death of Life should be sufficient. Before the war, Life's clever, sentimental drawings and stories pleased everybody. They were full of neighborliness and pleasant illusions. They were not ashamed to make you cry if they could. They did not hesitate to appeal to your higher nature nor to crusade against all sorts of abuses. They belonged to a comfortable, friendly little world which thought everything was pretty good and rapidly getting better.

In the post-war world Life, if you could pick up its old copies, would look pretty silly, a little sloppy, rather too precious. It has been succeeded in the humorous magazine field by an entirely new type of journalism which truly reflects the genius of this age. It has been crowded out by The New Yorker, which deals in a kind of high-class, expensive Fifth Avenue obscenity, Ballyhoo, which sells a roaring backhouse humor, and Esquire, which dispenses lewdness by the ton, wrapped in cellophane and decorated by the cleverest artists it can hire.

All these new papers have in common that attitude which fits them perfectly to mirror the present age. They are smart at all costs, even at the cost of the truth. They are cynical about everything from love to politics. They don't believe in anything but having a good time and not entirely in that. They know that this is an intolerable world, bound to get worse, so we must get what fun we can before the final bust.

Beside them, Life's notions of uplift, its queer ideas of honor, its genteel jokes about love, its sweet Gibson girls seem sickly sweet and cloying to the present generation. The present generation wants its amusement raw and rugged. It wants cynicism and brave pessimism because it feels so cynical and so brave itself. It wants to leer at everything because that is the smart thing to do, but in reality, if you could get below the surface, you would find that the modern world is really quite terrified of itself, quite appalled, just about ready to run home to mother and weep on her bosom. Having no mother to run home to, it has to hide behind the wisecrack, the leer and the smirk.

OUT OF DATE

MR. MacPHERSON, the Minister of Public Works, is building new and splendid roads these days. He is not building a great mileage, but he is doing what he does well, as you have seen around Goldstream. He thinks he is doing a permanent job, that his roads will be good fifty years from now. It is too bad, but his best roads, the most expensive he is building, will be entirely out of date in ten years.

In the United States they have been experimenting and they have found that they can build almost foolproof highways, where accidents are reduced to a small fraction of their present total, and these roads cost about half a million dollars a mile. Now they are going to light the roads instead of the cars and by the time they have finished I dare say the truly modern road will cost almost a million a mile, nearly as much as Mr. MacPherson is spending this year altogether.

The existing roads in the States look pretty good to us—four lanes of traffic, wide shoulders and so on, but in reality they are a death trap, the engineers say. They do not begin to handle modern high-speed traffic going at seventy and eighty, and likely to go at a hundred and perhaps two hundred within twenty years. And the modern roads which Mr. MacPherson is building aren't as wide as even the out-of-date main highways which the United States has got to replace if it is going to cut down the accident toll. Besides, they have invented an autogiro now which can land on an ordinary road and fold up its wings and enter a city like a car, so that, after all the billions have been spent on new super highways, probably they won't be needed. Everybody will be flying.

That is our excellent system of finance nowadays. We borrow money for twenty years for work which will last ten, so that we are always paying interest on assets which no longer exist. We are always paying for dead horses. This principle applies from roads to vacuum cleaners—no matter what you buy this year will be out of date next. Some fellow will invent a new gadget which makes yours completely obsolete, and even though yours serves its purpose quite well and seemed fine last year, you are no longer satisfied. You don't need something better, but you insist on something newer. That is why in ten years or so, long before we have begun to pay for our present roads, we shall have to build new ones all over again.

BACK AGAIN

THEY TELL ME the dear old Legislature is going to meet again next week, a shocking piece of news, and almost incredible. Why, it seemed only yesterday that it went away and left us in peace; but the Legislature, impelled by a fierce sense of public duty, is never satisfied to leave us alone long. Something should be done about it when the Legislature starts meeting twice a year.

But how different is the Legislature which is hastening here now from the Legislature which came here originally in the first part of 1934—the same members, the same component parts, but in essence an entirely new House. For here in British Columbia, in our small way, we are experiencing the same reaction to the right, the same recession from our early economic enthusiasms which is common to all America.

This will be the Legislature's fourth session and, apparently, very dreary and dull. But in its first session it was a very hell's broth. We were al ready to step into a new economic system next day. We endorsed banking reforms which we didn't understand but which would have meant making over the entire economy of the nation. We talked in high places of starting a separate British Columbia economy — the sort of thing which we laugh at when Mr. Aberhart tries it in Alberta. We talked of impounding the gold output of our mines, of refunding our debts, of using the national credit to put everyone to work. We listened to Mr. McGeer with the wonderment of a little child and approved everything he said by formal resolution, having no notion of what it meant.

It was fine while it lasted, but it is all gone now, and we are down to earth again after a grand ascension. We shall probably stay down for some years, and you had better get used to it.

A Great Journal

The following editorial appeared in The Toronto Globe on October 15 under the heading of "The Globe Changes Hands."

For the second time in the ninety-two years of its life, control of The Globe has changed hands. In the 1880's Mr. Robert Jaffray, later Senator, who had been an intimate friend of the paper's founder, purchased the Brown interests. Since then chief ownership has been with the Jaffray family, Senator Jaffray being succeeded as president in 1914 by his son, Mr. W. G. Jaffray. Yesterday the latter transferred the interests in his control to Mr. C. George McCullagh, who was elected president at a special meeting of the board of directors.

This is the brief story of a journalistic step which will be recognized as of great importance. The Globe has been called an institution because of the distinctive place it has occupied in the affairs of the country since March, 1844. It will be gratifying to its large family of readers and to many thousands of others as well to learn that the new management plans to maintain and strengthen its position, to provide, in the words of Mr. McCullagh, "the best that is available in a virile, up-to-date newspaper."

Those who know Mr. McCullagh will not regard this as merely a formal expression. Financial backing is supplied by Mr. W. H. Wright, widely known as one of Canada's great mining men. He is vice-president of Lake Shore and Wright-Hargreaves Mines. But he has made it clear, in a statement published elsewhere, that he is backing Mr. McCullagh's energy and ability and will not be active in newspaper operation.

The new president and publisher is one of the best known and most successful of Toronto's young business men. His progress since he left The Globe eight years ago has been remarkable, due to an abundance of energy and exceptional ability. He is relinquishing his seat on the Toronto Stock Exchange and an active part in profitable business enterprises to give his services to The Globe and its clientele. He has never lost his love for newspaper work, and it is a matter of good fortune for newspaperdom that he has reached a stage of financial independence so early in life and is now willing to devote his ability to the promotion of a great journal.

Under Mr. McCullagh's guidance The Globe will be independent Liberal in politics, upholding the principles of British democracy, and working for the betterment of the Canadian people and nation.

The retiring president, Mr. Jaffray, says of him: "He is well known as an energetic, enterprising, successful young business man and financier. He was in the employ of The Globe in various capacities before entering the investment business, and takes up his duties with knowledge and experience and unusual ability which are certain to be reflected in an aggressive newspaper." Recently his standing in the business community was recognized by his appointment to the board of governors of the University of Toronto.

Before leaving The Globe Mr. McCullagh was assistant financial editor. Previously he had been engaged in other departments. For several years he served as special representative of the president and thus gained an insight into most of the newspaper's activities. He is a Globe man who has returned home.

That the scope of The Globe for public service will be greatly enlarged by the introduction of ample capital and by the enterprise which this will make possible can be taken for granted. Mr. McCullagh is planning for a greater newspaper, for reader service and public service of a high standard. From this all supporters of the paper will benefit.

MUSINGS OF A MOUNTIE

By Corporal E. S. Covell in the R.C.M.P. Quarterly

Often I am asked the question, "What do the Indians and Esquimaux think of your magic and ventriloquism?" Well, that is rather a hard question to answer. Plumbing the depths of a native's mind is like taking a dip in a "lucky tub," one always pulls out the unexpected and it is never quite the thing that is wanted.

During a performance at Albany Post, a cigarette paper was borrowed from an old Indian named Johnny Wynne. A lighted match was applied to the paper, whereupon it turned into a $1 bill. This was presented to Johnny with the explanation that it was his property in view of the fact that the original cigarette paper had simply been changed by magic. After the performance the Hudson's Bay Company post manager asked Johnny what he thought of the trick. "It was very good," he replied, "but too bad that the policeman did not make it into a $10 bill while he was about it." The following day the chief appeared at our camp with a bundle of newspapers which he had obtained from the mission and requested that I burn them for him!

SHAPE OUR OWN

We do not shape our ideas after the pattern of things, but after the pattern of our own ideas. Is that freedom? No, rather slavery.—Dr. Etienne Gilson, French philosopher.

FEEDING LONDON

From a London Correspondent

Here is some food for thought—literally tons of it.

Striking figures have been compiled by the British railways which are the main channels by which Londoners' food reaches them. In one year the railways brought to London:

256,650 tons of fruits and vegetables;
114,350 tons of meat and poultry;
217,700 tons of fish, and
300,000 tons of potatoes.

Specially fitted containers are now extensively used for the transport of London's meat. Regular daily trains bring the meat in larders to Smithfield, where it is on sale, while most Londoners are still asleep in the morning.

The chains of docks, harbors and wharves and their spider's web of lines enable the railways to bring to London food from all parts of the globe.

RING LOST TWENTY YEARS

Essex, England (Canadian Press)—Diamondless for twenty years, Mrs. Ernest Grevall, wife of the rector of Pitsea, found her engagement solitaire behind the lining of her hope chest.

Legal Questions

The service supplied by this department is free to readers of The Times. Space does not permit the publication here of the answer to every question sent in, but all questions will be personally replied to by mail if accompanied with a 3-cent stamp. All communications will be treated as confidential.

Question: If the maker of a cheque dies before the person to whom he gave it cashed it at the bank, can such person cash it after his death?

Answer: A bank's authority to cash cheques is ended by the death of its customer.

Parallel Thoughts

Wherefore I perceive that there is nothing better than that a man should rejoice in his own works; for that is his portion; for who shall bring him to see what shall be after him.—Ecclesiastes iii, 22.

BALLROOMS Are Not BEACHES!

SUN and Sand are all very well "in the good old summer time"—but a skin that is dried, coarsened and roughened from hours on the beach can prove painfully embarrassing and out-of-place at autumn dances.

That's why well-groomed women depend upon Hinds Honey & Almond Cream to banish that rough, dry, reddened look—and make their skin soft, smooth and young-looking.

Hinds Honey & Almond Cream works better because it's creamy . . . not watery. Its rich, soothing ingredients act quickly to bring smooth softness to skin roughened and coarsened by exposure to sun and wind.

See for yourself how Hinds does more for hands. Pour out a little of this creamy, white, fragrant lotion on your palm. Your own eyes will tell you how much richer it is—your skin will tell you how comforting and soothing it is. Hinds disappears right away—drying in, not off—and leaving not a trace of stickiness. For a "Cinderella skin" use Hinds Honey & Almond Cream always after exposure to sun, wind or water—and at night before retiring.

Sir G. Paish To Wed B.C. Woman

Vancouver, Oct. 21.—Sir George Paish, prominent sixty-eight-year-old London economist, believes that romance may be found late in life, and as proof he has announced he will soon marry Mrs. Anita Caroline Rouse, forty, well known in Vancouver as a dietitian and food scientist.

"A man is never too old to marry," Sir George laughingly declared as he stated the marriage will take place in a London registry office.

Mrs. Rouse, remembered here as an attractive, silvery-haired, alert woman who did not look her age, left Vancouver for Vienna about a year ago to study dietetics.

Recently she was appointed an instructor in food science in a prominent London college.

Prior to her departure from Vancouver she lectured here on health education in relation to diet for about two years. During that time she gave weekly broadcasts over CKWX.

Before coming to Vancouver she studied dietetics in London and collaborated with Sir William Arbuthnot Lane on a book, "Cancer Begins in the Kitchen."

When she left Vancouver a year ago Mrs. Rouse announced she would return in January, 1937.

Sir George Paish's wife died in 1933.

Sir George was dubbed "The Great Pessimist" in 1928 when he forecast the Great Depression which he said would come "in autumn, 1929," as it did. Recently he declared world recovery is largely repressed by British and American tariff policies. He is, he says, "an unrelenting world free-trader."

Sheepish Golfer

There was nothing sheepish about Mrs. Donald Barder except her gloves when she entered the women's autumn golf tourney near London, England. The deep-cuffed gauntlets, setting a new style for sportswomen, are made of sheepskin.

Arlene Beauty Shop Opens Up

Tomorrow morning Miss Lillian Stokes will open a modern up-to-date beauty parlor at 3187 Quadra Street, under the name of Arlene Beauty Shop.

The bright salon, decorated in light buff and rust, should become popular not only with the women of Victoria but with the girls. Miss Stokes is a popular young native daughter. She is well known in athletic circles for her swimming and basketball ability. Her training has been of the finest in all branches of the beauty art. She is a qualified operator, efficient in permanent waving and every type of hair treatment.

Handicapped Girls Enjoy Guiding

Extension And Post-Branch Bring Joy To Many

Today is the third of the seven Guide days that are being kept all across Canada, this week being known as Canadian Girl Guide Week and this day as Lone and Extension Day.

Lone guides are girls living often in isolated rural areas, who are unable to attend company meetings. They belong to a lone company where the company work and fun is carried on by correspondence and an occasional meeting with a lone guider or with other guides. The company letters are evolved by the lone captain by the use of scissors, paste and old magazines as well as personal notes. They are always interesting, and bring to the lone guide a great desire to meet the writer and the other guides of her lone patrol. Some lones live 200 miles from the nearest company; some have never seen another guide. Others have been able on special occasions to get by horseback to a meeting. Two lones received a great thrill last summer, when the Chief Guide went across Canada, to be enrolled by her as she stopped at a wayside station. One lone guide in Canada lives in a lighthouse, but she feels in close touch with other girls because she belongs to a lone guide company.

FOR HANDICAPPED GIRLS

The extension branch of the Girl Guides was organized to bring to physically handicapped girls the joy of playing the game of guiding with their normal sisters. There is no greater tragedy for the young than being "left out," and almost inevitably the handicapped girl misses a great deal of enjoyment because she cannot do what other children do. One door stands open to her just as widely as to her more fortunate normal sisters—the chance to become a Girl Guide.

Extension companies are organized and run exactly the same as ordinary ones, competitions being entered and regular tests taken wherever possible. Stress is always laid upon what the girl can do rather than dwelling on her disabilities, thus enriching her life by opening to her new possibilities. Such companies exist in institutions for the blind, deaf and mentally deficient, also in hospitals, particularly convalescent ones where the children stay for some time. One children's hospital in Canada has a company of from eighteen to twenty-four meeting each week. What does it matter if you are on your back in bed; you can still sing and take part in things!

POST GUIDES

Extension guiding also seeks out the handicapped girl who is at home. She is called a post guide because all her meetings are by way of the post-office. Such fascinating letters as she gets from her captain, outlining what she should do, explaining things to her, and all illustrated with little pictures and drawings. After reading this lengthy letter, she mails it on to another girl in her company.

Extension companies, when they camp, have special care, and they also enter district competitions, often winning against ordinary guide companies.

A unique example of extension guiding exists in the Leper House at Perulia, India. These girls, suffering from various stages of leprosy, have found great happiness in their guide work, which helps to broaden their too limited horizon by giving them new interests.

To Entertain W.B.A. Official

The semi-monthly meeting of Queen Alexandra Review No. 1, W.B.A., was held on Monday evening, October 19, in the Foresters' Hall, Cormorant Street, at 7.30 o'clock, with the president, Mrs. Minnie A. Ritchie, in the chair. A letter was received from the League of Nations Society and Mrs. Ritchie was appointed as the review representative.

Plans for the entertainment of Mrs. Mary Baird, supervisor for the Dominion of Canada, were completed.

A banquet will be held on Thursday evening, October 29, at 6.30, in the Metropolitan Church schoolroom with the Ladies' Aid of that church as caterers. As many members as possible are urged to attend. Tickets are to be obtained through Mrs. Jean Bowden, 1034 Southgate Street, G 3345. After the banquet, a meeting in honor of Mrs. Baird will take place in the Victoria Truth Centre Hall, 720½ Fort Street, when the ritualistic work of the order will be exemplified.

On Friday afternoon a tea will be held at the Empress Hotel at which Mrs. Baird will be the guest of honor. Reservations may be made by phoning Mrs. Mabel Burnett, 1429 Richardson Street, E 0079.

After the business period, bridge and court whist were played under the convenership of Mrs. L. Schmelz. The prizes were awarded as follows: Bridge, first, Mrs. Sherritt; second, Mrs. Upward; third, Mr. Upward, and consolation, Mrs. Freestone; court whist, first, Mrs. Smith; second, Mrs. Jones; third, Miss M. Morris, and consolation, Mrs. R. Malcolm.

Refreshments were then served by the social committee.

Busy for Coronation

Busy factory girls and workmen throughout Great Britain already are at work fashioning stage scenery for the coronation of King Edward VIII next May. The girls, above, at a Bishopsgate factory near London, are making special flags for the coronation. Already 15,000 flags have been sent to South Africa, and orders are being rushed for England and other parts of the empire.

Club Bursary Winners As Guests

Women's Canadian Club Hears Montreal Speaker

Winners of the two bursaries of $100, presented annually by the Women's Canadian Club, for highest standing in matriculation, were introduced to the gathering held in the Empress Hotel ballroom yesterday afternoon, and warmly applauded.

Ray Adamson of the Oak Bay High School, and Basil Richards of the Victoria High School, the two successful students, were guests at the meeting and were introduced by Mrs. S. J. Willis, the president, who also announced the presentation of the other club awards since the last meeting.

H. J. Child, chairman of the Montreal Stock Exchange, was the guest speaker, and interested the club with his address on "The Human Side of Business." It was the same talk which he gave earlier in the day to the Men's Canadian Club. The vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. Child by Mrs. Campbell.

The soloist, Miss Dorothy Parsons, gave great pleasure with her two numbers, Brahms's "A Thought Like Music" and Mrs. Beach's "Ah, Love but a Day."

Mrs. Willis announced that the next meeting would be held on Tuesday, October 27, when Professor F. H. Soward of the Department of History, University of British Columbia, will be the speaker. Recently returned from the conference of the Institute of Pacific Relations, Professor Soward will make this his subject.

Girls' Rally Is Well Attended

On Monday evening St. Mary's Hall was well filled with members of the girls' branches of the W.A. Miss Pat Phipps, president of the Girls' Council, presided and heartily welcomed the girls who had gathered from Parksville, Sidney, Langford and the city. Among the guests specially invited were Lady (Richard) Lake, diocesan president; Mrs. Hewson of Toronto, Dominion girls' secretary; Mrs. H. V. Mills, Miss Georgina Checkley and Miss Mott.

Opening with a hymn and prayers, two short and helpful talks were given by May Jamieson on the thank-offering fund, and by Maude Deane-Freeman, who spoke on the prayer partner fund.

Lady Lake very graciously introduced Mrs. Hewson, who spoke to the girls on the work of the W.A. generally, specially commending the work done by the girls' branches. Following the address Mrs. Hewson was presented with a lovely bouquet of autumn flowers by Anne Gardiner.

Canon A. de L. Nunns closed the meeting with an inspiring talk, imploring every girl to seek for a true vision of the Christ. He then pronounced the benediction.

Mrs. Wilfred Hartley, diocesan girls' secretary, under whose direction the meeting was held, led in the singing of camp songs.

During the evening announcement was made of an entertainment to be held on Wednesday, November 25, in the Memorial Hall, when living pictures, tableaux and stories will tell of the work of the W.A. around the world. This is being sponsored by the Girls' Council and the support of all members of the W.A. was sincerely asked to make the undertaking a success.

The rally ended with the serving of delicious refreshments.

Glorifying Yourself

FOUNDATION PROTECTS BEAUTY
By ALICIA HART

This is the time of year when everyone should use foundation lotions or creams. They make cosmetics go on more smoothly and cling longer, of course, and they also protect the skin from icy winds.

If your complexion chaps easily and is likely to get red and rough, use makeup to protect as well as beautify. In the morning, after you have smoothed cleansing cream on face and throat, remove it with a washcloth which has been dipped in hot water and wrung quite dry, then apply foundation cream. Pick a variety that isn't too oily but which is creamy enough to make your skin satiny smooth.

Keep well powdered during the day, particularly when you are riding in a car or watching a football game. See that your lipstick isn't too dry. Oily types generally are better in cold weather. If you still have trouble, get a stick of plain pomade or a bit of camphor ice and put it on over lip rouge. Use it at night too.

Night creams take on a new importance right now. When you have used soap and water or several applications of cleansing cream to remove the day's dust and grime, pat face and throat with a good night cream, leave on while you bathe, brush teeth and hair, then remove. Once a week, during cold weather, it's an excellent idea to allow a bit of cream to remain on all night.

Mourning At Court Is Over

Brilliant London Season Opens; Royal Family Busy

Associated Press

London, Oct. 21.—Royal court mourning for the late King George ended today with society hostesses busily preparing for an autumn whirl of festivities heralded as the most brilliant in many years.

For the first time since January 20, when King George died at Sandringham, members of the royal family will now be able to attend theatres, receptions and balls.

The Duke of Norfolk, earl marshal for the coronation of King Edward VIII next May, and his mother have gone north to prepare their Yorkshire residence for a dinner and reception in honor of the Duke of Kent.

Both King Edward and his heir-presumptive, the Duke of York, have many engagements to fulfill in the coming weeks. But in the middle of November His Majesty will slip away from London and talk with his poorer subjects in the hard-hit mining towns of Wales.

Mollisons To Proceed Solo

Famous Fliers To Part, Says Amy Johnson

Associated Press

Chelsfield, Kent, October 21.—Mrs. Amy Mollison, the aviatrix, said last night she and her flying husband, Capt. James Mollison, have decided soloing is the best martial course for each of them.

Mrs. Mollison, holder of long distance flight records, made her statement after a forced landing here had wrecked her plane and broken her nose.

"I have for the past month heard rumors about Jim and my friendship," she said. "Jim is going his way and I am going mine, and I shall fly under my own name as Amy Johnson."

Her husband, she said, is in the United States.

Amy Johnson was married to James A. Mollison in London July 29, 1932. Each is a noted long distance flier.

In July, 1933, Mr. and Mrs. Mollison flew from England across the Atlantic and crashed at Bridgeport, Conn., on a projected non-stop flight to New York.

Mrs. Mollison on December 18, 1932, wrested the England-Capetown speed record from her husband, completing the flight in four days, 6 hours and 55 minutes.

This record was eclipsed by Jean Batten in May, 1934, but May 16 of this year Mrs. Mollison regained it, adding three new records to her log book.

She set a record each way for solo flights between Capetown and London and established a record for the round-trip, which she completed in a flying-time of seven days, 22 hours and 45 minutes.

Rev. Dr. A. Reid Talks to W.M.S.

The Thanksgiving meeting of the Metropolitan W.M.S. was held in the schoolroom on Monday afternoon, with a good attendance. Rev. Dr. Andrew Reid of Centennial Church was the guest speaker. After the devotional period conducted by the president, Miss Baker, a request for wool or donations for same was received, several ladies having signified their willingness to knit garments if wool were supplied. Treasurer's report was read by Mrs. W. Ozard, and Mrs. J. T. Taylor reported four letters written. Mrs. W. E. Harper, strangers' secretary, told of ninety-two calls made—on sick fifty-one, on strangers forty-one. Mrs. F. T. Cliff told of an afternoon spent in hospital visiting, when eighteen calls were made. A letter from the literary department concerning the study book, was read by Mrs. W. L. Smith.

Mrs. Menagh of Sidney was made a life member, Mrs. E. P. Church presenting the certificate. Mrs. F. T. Cliff had charge of the devotional. The Scripture was read by Mrs. A. Sullivan, and prayer offered by Mrs. W. R. Seeley. Two solos were rendered by Miss Ivy Bowles.

Dr. Reid, who was introduced by Mrs. Cliff, spoke a few words of congratulation regarding the work of the W.M.S. The theme of his discourse was "Christ's Great Commission," and the importance of missionary work was emphasized by Dr. Reid, who argued that the strength of a church is determined by its missionary enthusiasm. The missionary spirit, he maintained, is the lifeblood of the church.

Miss Baker thanked Dr. Reid for his words of inspiration. The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction.

National Baby Show Was Fiasco

4,000 Swarm Into London Show; Only 500 Expected

(Special Correspondence)

London, Oct. 15. — Astonishing scenes have marred Britain's first "National Baby Show," held at the Crystal Palace, London.

About 4,000 babies were brought by their parents to be judged, instead of only 500 as expected. As a result, the hall was besieged for hours by weeping mothers, howling babies and impatient fathers.

The show was organized by Mr. A. E. Fruitnight, a member of the Romford Council. Originally planned as a "National Baby Show and Nursery Exhibition," it was to have lasted for five days—from Monday to Friday.

Ten thousand entries were expected, but the response swept up to 25,000.

As a result, Councillor Fruitnight circularized the entrants canceling the arrangements. On the advice of the management of the Crystal Palace, it was decided to limit the show to one day, and the entries to 500.

But thousands of parents, many from distant parts of the country, made the trip to the Crystal Palace, unaware of the alteration.

Five hundred mothers and fathers, some of whom had traveled all night, had arrived by 11 o'clock in the morning.

"They came from as far away as Scotland, North Wales, Derbyshire and Cornwall," I was told.

ONLY ONE DOCTOR

"Half an hour later there were more than 1,000 present and only one doctor was there to do the judging. Parents were wandering around aimlessly wondering what to do.

"The place was rapidly filling with fresh arrivals, and they were finally told to sit down in the main hall.

"It was later stated that judging would take place in a small room off the main hall. Immediately, a number of women caught up their children and besieged the room, occupied by one doctor and a number of women helpers.

"They were let in one at a time. The babies were undressed and laid on the scales."

Mr. Fruitnight, explaining the cause of the confusion in an interview, said "the arrangements for the show were considerably complicated by the fact that about 1,000 mothers brought their babies along to be judged without filling in any entrance forms.

"The only explanation for this is that by paying the entrance fee of is to the Crystal Palace, mothers were able to mix with competitors, and once they had done this there was no sorting them out.

"Regarding the awards, we intend going through the judges' cards and picking out the first fifty babies. They will be awarded a small cup, and all others put down as 'highly commended' will receive a certificate."

The idea of finding Britain's most perfect baby by means of this show has, of course, been abandoned.

But Mr. Fruitnight hopes to try again.

RE-WED AFTER DIVORCE

Divorce—and now, four years later—remarried to the same man is the romantic story of Naomi Ludolf, the actress and authoress, who recently returned to England from America.

In 1930, she met Captain Livingstone-Learmouth, a descendant of David Livingstone, the missionary-explorer. Four days later, they were married at a registry office.

Then there was a quarrel and divorce in 1932. Now—Naomi Ludolf has relented and they have been remarried at Kensington Registry Office—"and we are going for a second honeymoon," she told friends after the ceremony. But this time she took five months to make up her mind instead of four days!

Captain Livingstone - Learmouth, who is an old Etonian, is well known in racing and hunting circles as an amateur jockey. He has ridden in the Grand National and he is also the author of several racing novels.

Miss Ludolf, before her first marriage to Captain Livingstone-Learmouth, was well known as a stage and screen actress.

News of Clubwomen

Frances Willard W.C.T.U. — The Frances Willard W.C.T.U. will hold a parlor meeting at the home of Mrs. J. N. Holland, 1065 Holmes Street, on Thursday afternoon from 3 to 5. Mrs. F. W. Laing will give a report of the W.C.T.U. convention which was held at Chilliwack. A musical programme will be given and refreshments served. Friends are cordially invited to attend.

Venture Club.—The Victoria Venture Club held its first social meeting of the season on Tuesday, October 20, at the club rooms, the president, Helen Wells, acting as hostess at an informal party for the members and their guests. A lively and enjoyable evening was spent playing various games, the prize-winners being Olive MacLean, Irma Falls and Muriel Butcher. The evening concluded with a light supper. It was announced that the next meeting to be held on Wednesday, November 4, would be a business meeting.

Thanksgiving W.M.S.—The annual Thanksgiving meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the First United Church was held Monday afternoon. Mrs. A. Chisholm, the president, was in the chair. An impressive Thanksgiving service, entitled, "Father, We Thank Thee," was conducted by Mrs. R. W. Mayhew. Solos were sung by Mrs. W. H. Wilson and Miss Marion Mitchell, accompanied by Mrs. Clifford Warn. Mrs. A. Augustine was presented with a life membership certificate by Mrs. M. L. McLennan as an expression of thangsgiving for services rendered by her to missions for many years. The treasurer presented her report. The guest speaker, Rev. Richmond Craig, introduced by the president, reviewed the work of the Christian church during the past few years, and presented a challenge for more consecrated work for the cause of the Master, stating that the church should be a place where sacrifice is practiced. Mrs. J. H. Fletcher tendered the thanks of the gathering to Rev. Craig, the vocalists and to Mrs. Warn. The meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction. A social half-hour was enjoyed, when tea was served by Mrs. K. R. Stewart and her committee.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

IF YOUR CHILD SNIFFLES, KEEP HIM HOME—AND IN BED

"Good gracious, you're sneezing," says mother anxiously to Arthur, "do you feel as if you were getting a cold?"

"Aw no—I'm all right, I'm going to school." And so he goes, sniffling manfully, hating to be penned up at home, wanting the companionship of classmates.

It is inevitable, because of just such habits, that school days are marred for many children by hard colds. The abrupt change from outdoor freedom to warm confinement, the contact with children some of whom are just getting or getting over a cold is certain to foster the spread of germs.

CURE A COLD IN BED

However disappointing to the child, there is but one sensible course to follow, and that is to keep the child at home and in bed.

Colds would depart hastily were the suffering sniffler to be kept in an even temperature, given the luxury of a wealth of dry, clean, paper tissues, instead of a soppy, inadequate handkerchief, and then fed according to his own appetite.

There are too many silly sayings, like "stuff a cold and starve a fever," respected and lived up to. The sick person himself often knows better than anyone what he can eat with relish.

PROTECT THE BABY

Because colds are caught from individuals with colds, the baby should be protected from close association with the mother or the school children with colds. When handling the baby cover the mouth and nose with a large, clean handkerchief or a strip of sterile gauze.

Then in addition to this protection, if all sneezing, coughing, sniffling victims were kept at home, from the moment they first display these symptoms, there would be fewer epidemics of colds racing through families, schools and offices.

For the further help of mothers we have two non-medical leaflets, "Home Treatment of Colds" and "Causes of Colds," which may be had for a self-addressed and three-cent stamped envelope, sent to Myrtle Meyer Eldred of the Your Baby and Mine department of this newspaper.

KEATING

South Saanich Farmers' Institute resumed their meetings for the winter months last Thursday evening, with W. D. Michell in the chair.

E. W. White of the Department of Agriculture gave an address on experiments carried on with borum on fruit trees, which, he said, was giving splendid results.

Presentation of prizes in the strawberry and loganberry crop competitions conducted by the institute, was made by Mr. White, who acted as one of the judges in the competitions. Mr. Mullen was presented with a silver fruit dish as first prize in the strawberry competition while S. Fox obtained second and was awarded a silver spoon. First prize in the loganberry competition was won by A. Sutherland, who received a silver berry dish, while W. Bickford and Sons received a silver spoon as second prize winners.

A committee to make arrangements for the annual country store was appointed as follows: A Sutherland, W. D. Michell, G. Spencer, Mr. Meikle-john and W. W. Michell.

N. H. Lamont reported on the marsh drainage at Island View Beach, which is hoped to be a factor in freeing the area of mosquitos.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by members of the Women's Institute.

Wengers Jewelry Sale on Tomorrow

Celebrating sixty years of successful jewelry merchandising in Victoria, Wenger's Ltd., will open a Diamond Jubilee sale at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, and all merchandise in stock, excepting a few contract goods, have been greatly reduced in price.

Starting in a modest way sixty years ago this firm has gradually risen to present standing. Always noted for the high quality of their wares, Wenger's assure all friends that the same high standard will obtain during the sale. An unqualified guarantee of satisfaction backs every purchase.

Armistice Ball Date Set

Amputations Men Choose November 10 For Annual Affair

The Amputations' Association of the Great War is busily engaged making arrangements for their annual Armistice Ball, which will be held in the Empress Hotel on Tuesday, November 10, to celebrate the eighteenth anniversary of the signing of the Armistice.

All members of this association are men who saw actual front-line service during the Great War, and who suffered the loss of a limb, limbs, or complete eyesight as a result of such service.

The following committees have been appointed to make all arrangements: Tickets, A. Glenday, D. Hull and C. H. Rayment; decorations, H. Thirwall; advertising, F. Sargent; music, A. Glenday and C. H. Rayment; reception, J. Davey, W. F. Humble, C. Ockenden and G. Ockewell.

Every effort is being made to make this ball one of the outstanding events of Victoria's winter social season, and those attending will be assured of a very enjoyable evening. As in the past, tickets will be very reasonably priced, and will go on sale in the very near future.

The money derived from this event is used for many worthy causes, and it is hoped that the public will give its wholehearted support.

Helen Keller Loses Her Tutor

Associated Press

New York, Oct. 21. — Mrs. Anne Sullivan Macy, seventy, the woman who taught Miss Helen Keller, famous blind and deaf mute author and lecturer, to speak and read, died today.

Anne Sullivan was a pupil of Lura Bridgman, a teacher at the Perkins Institute for the Blind in Boston, which was organized by Dr. Samuel Gridley Howe, husband of Julia Ward Howe. Howe was the first physician to break the walls of silence and darkness for a deaf and blind person, and Lura Bridgman was his most noted pupil.

Anne, who was born in Feeding Mills near Springfield, Mass. April 14, 1866, was virtually blind when she entered the institution in 1880, but recovered sufficient sight to enable her to read. She learned to "talk" through the manual telegraphic or finger alphabet.

In 1886 a call came from Capt. Arthur Keller in Alabama for help for his seven-year-old daughter, Helen, who since nineteen months of age had been blind and deaf. The Boston institution picked Miss Sullivan. From that day onward, through all the years, Miss Sullivan was "teacher" to her noted pupil.

Worried by Pimples and Eczema

Complexion Unblemished after Six Weeks of Kruschen

"For the past two years," writes a woman, "my face was covered with hard pimples and red blotches, and I also had eczema on my neck and fore-arms. I tried lotions, creams and ointments, without the slightest effect. I was so worried. Fortunately I decided to give Kruschen a trial, and without any exaggeration, within six weeks my face was without a blemish, and I have not had a sign of eczema since. I take Kruschen regularly every morning, and would not be without it."—(Mrs.) J. A.

Pimples and eczema are frequently due to impurities in the blood—irritant poisons which sluggish body organs are failing to expel from the system. Kruschen Salts help to keep the body organs functioning normally and healthily, thus preventing the accumulation of impurities in the blood. (Advt.)

BEGIN HERE TODAY

KAY DUNN, pretty young nurse, is hired as a stewardess on Overland Airways and, the same day, meets TED GRAHAM, veteran pilot who flies the trans-Pacific route.

Kay is assigned to the western division of the service. MONTE BLAINE, an apprentice pilot, pays her marked attentions. Monte is daring, romantic, but Kay is more interested in Ted, whom she sees infrequently.

He telephones one morning and she spends the day with him and DICKIE, his adopted seven-year-old son. They drive up into the mountains and have a picnic luncheon. Dickie and Kay at once become close friends.

Kay has been told that Ted Graham worships the memory of his wife who died years before. He tells her frankly that he will never marry again.

"Romance is behind me," he says. "I've a job now."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER IX

Ted Graham was in port for almost a week, getting the Mariner ready for its next flight, and Kay saw him every day between her own trips on the Overland route.

She had her introduction to the life of the flying colony at Ship Harbor, the home port of Trans-Pacific Airways. It was a homey group. Everyone knew everyone else — the petty trials, rivalries, good fortune and bad that came to their neighbors.

At first they regarded Kay as an outsider, but soon they came to like her. Kay herself was in excellent spirits. She was enjoying her work and was no longer lonesome.

The young pilots at Ship Harbor were all interested in the new girl. Though she was usually seen with Ted, they liked to dance and flirt with her. Monte Blaine was particularly attentive. The fact that Ted had known her previously only seemed to spur Monte's interest. Rivalry was part of his nature.

But the flying colony knew Monte was the "hero" type of an earlier era — dashing, adventurous, holder of transcontinental speed records. Once Monte took a private plane and flew to Reno in less than two hours to have a date with Kay. She felt enormously flattered, but when Ted Graham heard about it he called Monte on the carpet and gave him a lecture.

The day after Monte's trip to Reno Kay had a wire from central headquarters transferring her to the Oakland airport. Doris Lee took Kay's place in Reno and decided it would be convenient to stay on in the apartment Kay had rented.

It wasn't a second parting between the two girls, for they would still see each other frequently.

Kay hurried out to Ship Harbor that afternoon to see the Flying Mariner take off for Hawaii. Her taxi was caught in a jam and she didn't arrive in time to see Ted. She ran down to the quay just as the giant flying boat was taxying out into open water.

Kay, like the other spectators waved goodbye. Tears came into her eyes, blinding her; she didn't know why. With four 800-horsepower motors roaring in unison, the big flying boat rose gracefully from the water and headed directly for the Golden Gate.

The sun had set and Kay saw the ship's lights blinking red and green. Then she could see no more. She wiped the tears from her eyes and turned to find Monte Blaine standing beside her, tall and broad and clear, watching the ship disappear.

He turned and, with mock gravity took a handkerchief from his pocket and presented it to Kay. "There," he said, "wipe those lovely eyes. You'll have me believing you're in love with that guy!"

Monte followed her down the quay. "Come on, sweetheart, cheer up!" he said. "Give us a smile!"

Kay smiled and they both looked up into the night where a single green light still shone. "There they go," Monte said, "flying to Hawaii. When I was twenty-two I was a test pilot. I've had 3,000 hours in the air, and I hold the Panama to New York non-stop record—but in this outfit do you know what I am? Just an apprentice pilot!"

Kay took his hand. "After you've had 10,000 hours in the air—"

"I'll be an old man!" Monte laughed, dismissing the cloud though. "Angel, don't fall in love with that man Ted Graham. For fifteen years he's been living for the air. He's reduced life to a —a science. It's all instrument work, laying the ground work, taking measurements. Thinks all human activity should be organized the same way."

Kay smiled indulgently. Monte, in spite of his broad shoulders and handsome, dark head, seemed so young.

She said, "We won't talk about Ted — when he's away. I've been transferred. From now on Ship Harbor is my home."

Two days later Kay found an apartment near the beach at Ship Harbor where, from her window, she could see the trans-Pacific liners, moored at the quay. How she envied the men of the crews on those flights! There seemed to be magic in the names of the places they visited —Honolulu, French Frigate Shoals, Midway, Guam, Manila.

Ted Graham was away from the home port for the next two weeks. It was the time of the Easter holidays, so Dickie, his adopted son, was home from military school. Dickie liked the grime and dirt of the hangars and he liked tools. Since Jerry Searles (with whom Ted lived) was at the airport all day, Dickie spent most of his time there, too.

Kay met him the first day of his vacation, and he came to her with shrill cries of joy, putting grimy little fists around her waist. She didn't mind. She was on her way home with the evening meal, literally, in her arms.

Dickie was hungry. He said, "Pal, you wouldn't invite a guy in to eat, would you? Jerry's food is all right, but it all comes out of tin cans."

Kay laughed. "I'm afraid mine all comes from the delicatessen store, Dickie, but you're perfectly welcome!"

He followed her home and didn't like it because she insisted he wash his face and hands. When supper was ready, however, he was shining like a button.

"I think Ted likes you," Dickie confided, over the ice cream. "Once I slipped into his room and he was drawing little circles and writing 'Kay' in them. That's your name, isn't it."

The doorbell rang and Kay went to answer. It was, as she had expected, Monte Blaine. He had brought one of the other apprentice pilots with him. Ralph Bangs was a bright-eyed youngster with curly hair and a slight scar on the left cheek.

Monte demanded, "Why didn't you invite us to the housewarming? Which reminds me the house hasn't been warmed and you've been living in the colony for a week. Shame, shame!"

"I'm not sleepy," Dickie put in quickly. "When Ted is away I don't go to bed until 4 o'clock in the morning. Sometimes I don't go to bed at all!"

"Dickie!" Kay said, gathering him into her arms. "You're so sleepy right now you don't know what you're saying."

She walked down the beach with the child. A heavy fog was rolling in from the bay and, after she had turned Dickie over to Jerry Searles and was on her way back to the apartment, she could scarcely see more than a few feet ahead.

Monte and Ralph were talking and smoking when she returned. "It's a bad night out for fliers," Kay announced.

Each of them shivered, feeling the fog in their bones. "We called up some friends," Monte told her. "Thought tonight was as good as any for the housewarming."

"But, Monte, I haven't a thing here to eat!"

He grinned. "That isn't the etiquette of a housewarming here. Guests bring their own refreshments."

The bell rang again and Kay thought it must be Monte's friends. Instead it was Doris Lee on the threshold.

"The night plane was grounded," Doris said. "We couldn't leave the airport in this fog, so here I am!"

Monte appeared in the doorway. "This is a haven for sailors in a storm," he informed her.

Doris saluted. "It's a wicked night out, sailor."

Ralph Bangs was leaning over the radio as Doris entered the living room. As soon as she saw him she dropped her bag with a clatter. "So it's you!" she exclaimed.

The young pilot blushed. "Why, Doris—"

Kay said, in surprise, "Then you know each other?"

Doris's chin lifted firmly. "And how! The last time I saw that guy he was flying out of Central airport. For a while we were good friends—until I began to hear tales about this handsome Romeo and did a little investigating. Do you know what I found out. He has a girl in every port from Cheyenne to New York! After that the air around Central wasn't big enough for the pair of us. One had to leave and the best man won —so he got out."

This amiable quarrel lasted until the others began to arrive. They were all members of the flying colony. Kay was glad they accepted her as one of them; it made her feel that she "belonged." With this feeling she went to the windows and looked out at the thick black fog. Her thoughts swiftly crossed the ocean, picturing the Mariner winging its way, perhaps through just such fog and rain and lightning.

Monte came up beside her. "Don't look at the fog!" he said. "Br-r-r! It used to be a nightmare, but it's not any more on the trans-Pacific flight, thanks to Ted. Last week he flew from Honolulu to the mainland and didn't see the ocean after he left Diamond Head. That's progress in the air!"

"There'll always be some danger," Kay said.

Monte shrugged his shoulders, repeated, "Don't look at the fog!"

Man Robbed By Three Women

Associated Press

Chicago, Oct. 21.—Arnold Moore is ready to concede that the female of the species is as deadly if not deadlier than the male.

A blonde and two brunettes walked into the mortuary where he is employed.

The blonde demanded the "fish box" as she flashed a pistol. "Money," she added when Moore failed to comprehend. He handed her $650. Then the brunette companion relieved him of a ring, a $40 wrist watch and $10 in cash.

Sir F. Becker Of London Succumbs

Canadian Press

London, Oct. 21. — Sir Frederick Becker, a pioneer in the Canadian woodpulp industry, died yesterday, aged sixty-five.

Sir Frederick was chairman of Becker and Company, merchants and shopowners, and was head of a large group of papermakers. During the Great War he rendered service in connection with the woodpulp and paper industries.

In 1891 he married Annie J. Bridger.

Small Fire In New City Hall

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Oct. 21.—Fire believed to have been caused by spontaneous combustion broke out on the fifth floor of Vancouver's new City Hall yesterday evening, but was quickly extinguished by firemen before it could do any damage.

The blaze started among rags and waste left lying on the elevator landing on the fifth floor.

The Family Doctor

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Frequently small children will push beans, pieces of chalk, buttons, pencils, erasers or other materials into their noses. Sometimes they will put small toys, coins and similar objects into their mouths or inhale these objects.

Occasionally, too, a child will shove some foreign materials into its ears. Usually the mother becomes greatly disturbed and, in some instances, with plenty of reason.

Dr. M. Fishbein

A foreign substance in the nose is not immediately serious. More harm may be done by attempting to dislodge the foreign substance with improper instruments than by letting it alone until competent advice can be had.

If blowing the nose in the ordinary manner will not rid of the foreign body, sneezing may cause it to be forcibly ejected. Sneezing, of course, is induced quickly by the use of snuff, tobacco, or some similar irritating powder.

A doctor first examines the nose or mouth with proper instruments, next determines how to remove the foreign body, and then does the work carefully. Sometimes he uses forceps to grasp the foreign substance and pull it out; sometimes he dissolves or breaks up the substance, if this is possible, or he may stretch the nasal cavity slightly so that the foreign substance will drop out.

If a child swallows a sharp pointed object, such as a piece of glass or a pin, first consideration should be given to the danger involved.

Small objects will usually pass through the stomach and intestines if the child will eat something like mashed potatoes or some bread, thoroughly chewed. Such a mass will aid passage of the foreign substance down the gullet into the stomach.

It is best then to have prompt medical advice. By use of the X-ray, the doctor will locate the foreign substance and will then make his decision as to the best method of removal.

All sorts of ingenious operations have been devised for the removal of open safety pins and similar dangerous materials. Through tubes which may be passed down the throat into the stomach, the foreign substance may be grasped and withdrawn.

Occasionally the object will work its way into the lower end of the stomach. In such cases it may be necessary to open the abdominal cavity and move the object upward, without opening the stomach, so that it can be grasped by an instrument inserted through the throat.

Rats destroyed a whole town in Tanganyika, Africa, after first ruining the cotton crop. They invaded the town in such numbers that the inhabitants were forced to vacate.

TWINS SEEK SHOW HONORS

Heavy Entry For Competition at Winter Fair

Entries for the Baby Show to be held at the Winter Fair next Monday are pouring in to the offices of the Tourist Trade Assocaition.

Victoria's finest pair of twins, according to their proud mother, Mrs. Hawthorn Thwait, 546 Dupplin Road, will be strong contestants in the six to twelve months class.

The judging of the babies in the three classes, for which cups are offered, up to six months, six to twelve months and twelve to eighteen months, will be done by official representatives of the Jubilee and St. Joseph's Hospitals, with, it is hoped, an official from the Solarium.

Parents desiring to enter their babies in the contest are advised to get in touch with Frank Bickford, E8913, or to call at the offices of the Tourist Trade Association, Arcade Building, Government and View Streets.

There is no charge for entries. Each baby will be photographed.

The prizes in the Baby Show will be awarded at 4.15 o'clock on Monday by Mrs. Eric Hamber, wife of the Lieutenant-Governor.

One parent or guardian will be admitted free to the fair with the baby contesting. Babies must be present at 1.30 o'clock sharp.

School Boundaries To Be Redifined

Duncan, Oct. 21.—Redefining of school boundaries within municipal limits is being considered by the North Cowichan council.

It is proposed to create a new school district to be known as Chemainus, which would include the industrial area around the mill town. The existing North Cowichan school district will be redrafted by excluding Chemainus townsite, but increasing its area in the south by absorbing a portion of the territory near Westholme now included in the Duncan Consolidated School District.

The consolidated district would be compensated for the loss of some taxable land in the north by the inclusion of the Genoa Bay area within its boundaries.

The object of the proposed change is to relieve the farmers in the agricultural area of the higher cost of education in the Chemainus industrial area. Chemainus is in urgent need of more school accommodation, but the farmers object to increased taxes for this purpose—a by-law to erect a school at Chemainus having met with defeat at the hands of North Cowichan ratepayers last January.

Some difficulties in connection with the scheme still remain to be ironed out, but the council hopes that these will be satisfactorily met and the necessary legislation to bring about the change will be put through at the coming session of the Legislature.

CHEMAINUS

Chemainus, Oct. 21.—A card party and old-timers' dance, sponsored by the Oyster Women's Institute was held in the Saltair Hall on Saturday night.

Recreation To Be Instituted

Y.M.C.A. to Sponsor Leadership Conference October 27 to 30

An opportunity for instruction and coaching in the leadership and utilization of recreation for groups, organizations and individuals will be offered by the Y.M.C.A. in a recreation institute conference which will take place on October 27, 28, 29 and 30, at the Y.M.C.A.

Director of the institute programme will be W. R. Cook of the Y.M.C.A. national council, who has achieved a national reputation in recreation leadership, and who has come west to co-operate with the University of Alberta in setting up such institutes throughout that province.

SUBJECTS OF CONFERENCE

Subjects to be discussed at the conference will be recreation fundamentals and philosophy and important branches of social recreation, including applied arts and crafts. The conference will be aimed at assembling workers in organizations, institutions and services dealing primarily with people, social workers, church workers, officers of young people's societies, teachers, representatives of service clubs, fraternal societies, women's institutes, political and labor clubs, and also individuals interested in participating or improving their skill in certain forms of recreation such as song-leading and folk-dancing. Membership will be open to adults of both sexes.

The institute will study group games, singing games and rhythmic games for all sorts of places and occasions, handicrafts, table games, community singing, song leading, folk songs, music, drama, puppetry, nature study, modelmaking and photography.

The programme of each evening will last three hours. In the afternoons weaving, dyeing and workshop practice will be featured.

Among those contributing to the programme as lecturers or directors of activity will be W. R. Cook, metal working in pewter; making and playing of shepherd pipes, rhythmic games, etc.; Mrs. W. R. Cook, weaving and batik dyeing; Mrs. E. Austin, weaving; Miss Lothian, pottery; Miss Sheila Boyd, puppetry; Miss Margaret Clay, reading; Mrs. Reese Burns, drama; Miss Nancy Ferguson, folk dancing; Mrs. W. Peden, glove-making; Miss Margaret Ryan, social games; Norman M. Simister, metal working; Capt. J. A. Philipsen, model ship building; E. Savannah, photography; H. Whiteoak, horticulture; Rev. Robert Connell, nature studies; Frank Paulding, public speaking; A. McKinnon, social games, and F. V. Shoemaker, social games.

Carleton W. Stocker, Grand Regent of the jurisdiction of Washington and British Columbia of the Royal Arcanum, returned to the city Monday morning after attending a conference of grand regents of the Pacific Coast at San Francisco. His itinerary also included a visit to the Spokane Council and attendance at the meeting of officers of the grand council held in Seattle on Saturday night. He was accompanied from Seattle by Past Regents Stewart, Park and Applegate, who made the trip on Saturday to attend the latter meeting. Majestic Council No. 1513 of the Royal Arcanum will hold its first social event of the winter season at the K. of C. Hall. This will take the form of "A Nite in the 90's," with dancing and refreshments. Tickets can be obtained from the officers of the council and members and their friends are extended a cordial invitation to attend.

CROWN JEWELS ARE DESCRIBED

Sam Dalton Shows Credit Granters Replicas in David Spencer's Store

Replicas of the crown jewels of England, on show in the store of David Spencer Limited, were described to members of the Victoria Credit Granters' Association following their luncheon yesterday by Sam Dalton.

Dressed in the scarlet costume of a beefeater, Mr. Dalton entertained the credit granters with a few cockney jokes before taking them down to the glass-encased jewels.

The crown which would be placed on the head of Edward VIII at the coronation ceremony shortly was the oldest crown in Europe, he said. The headpiece weighed over five and one-half pounds and was of solid gold.

This crown was never allowed outside England, Mr. Dalton said, so at the time of the Durbar, King George was given another crown by the people. Over $60,000 was subscribed for this crown in less than half an hour. The imperial crown of India contained 6,200 diamonds and the largest emerald in the world.

WORLD'S LARGEST RUBY

The sword which was only used in coronation ceremonies contained one jewel alone which was worth $60,000. The swords of the knights of old were made of Damascus steel, which was a lost art, Mr. Dalton said. The steel was so finely tempered that he had seen the end of one of the crown swords tied in a knot, and yet the edge could be sharpened to razor fineness.

The state crown contained the largest ruby in the world, the Black Prince ruby, which was valued at $650,000.

The replicas of the crown jewels had been seen by 160,000 people when they were on display for nine weeks in Vancouver, Mr. Dalton said, and 4,000 people had seen them since they had been on display here.

Before going down to see the jewels, the members of the Credit Granters' Association heard a few remarks from H. B. Dawson, secretary, on a definite collection policy. Mr. Dawson quoted from Phelps an authority on credit subjects, and declared that a collection policy was a necessity in Victoria.

He felt that ninety days was sufficient to stop any open credit policy. He gave examples of stores which stopped allowing any more credit after sixty days without payment to those who carried bad customers for as long as six years.

Tom McPherson, president of the association, was in the chair. He announced that next week Logan Mayhew would address the club on his recent cycle tour of Europe.

ROYAL OAK

Miss Muriel Clarke and Dick Ireland, whose marriage takes place October 22, were guests of honor when Mrs. M. Young and Miss Dora Young entertained with a miscellaneous shower on Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Peet, West Saanich Road. Joan Peet presented the chest of gifts to the guests of honor. Winners of guessing contests and games were Miss Muriel McLellan and Miss Muriel Clarke. Refreshments were served from a table centred with a vase of bronze chrysanthemums. Those present included Miss Muriel Clarke, Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Clarke (Vancouver), Miss Muriel McLellan (Vancouver), Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Peet, Mr. and Mrs. Kneale Quayle, Mrs. M. Young, Mrs. L. R. Towler, Mrs. W. Jones, Misses M. Butt, K. Butt, B. Cuthbertson, Phyllis Towler, Dora Young, Eva Phillips, Elfreda and Beatrice Jones, Joan Peet, Dick Ireland, E. Blake and Herbert Oldfield.

St. Michael's A.Y.P.A. held their meeting on Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. L. R. Towler, Haliburton Road, with Miss Dora Young in the chair. Miss Phyllis Towler gave a paper on Ethiopian ballads, by Steven Foster, and a number of his ballads were sung. A musical contest was enjoyed, the winner being Herbert Oldfield. Refreshments were served. The next meeting will be a Hallowe'en social, to be held on Thursday, October 29, at the home of Mrs. H. C. Oldfield, Old West Road.

The regular meeting of St. Michael's Junior Woman's Auxiliary was held on Monday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. M. Young, West Saanich Road. In the Parish Hall on Monday, October 26, a lantern lecture on her trip to England will be given by Deaconess Robinson. A display of the work done by the girls will be exhibited.

How to Make a Splendid Cough Remedy at Home

A Big Saving, and It's So Easy! No Cooking!

Cough medicines usually contain a large quantity of sugar syrup—a good ingredient, but one which you can easily make at home. Take 2 cups of granulated sugar and 1 cup of water, and stir a few moments until dissolved. No cooking! No trouble at all.

Then get from your druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a 16 oz. bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you 16 ounces of really splendid medicine for bad winter coughs. It makes a real saving for you, because it gives you four times as much cough remedy for your money. It lasts a long time, never spoils, and children love it.

This is a very effective, dependable, quick-acting cough remedy for the whole family. Quickly, you feel its penetrating effect in the air passages. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes and makes breathing easy. You'll be more than delighted with its quick effect in clearing up bad coughs.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine, in concentrated form, a well known and reliable soothing agent for winter coughs. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Presbytery Ends Annual Sessions

Up-island Mission in Conjunction With Anglican Church Is Among Important Decisions Reached at Conference

The Victoria Presbytery of the United Church of Canada this morning concluded an annual meeting which saw several outstanding decisions reached in the course of two full days of deliberation in which ministers and laymen from all parts of Vancouver Island took part.

Yesterday afternoon the Presbytery put into concrete form plans which had been considered since the week of Christian witness held last January, and which will make for a still closer link between the United Church and the Anglican communion, by endorsing a proposal for a preaching mission to be held in up-island towns in November.

Very Rev. Cecil S. Quainton, Dean of Columbia, and Rev. E. F. Church will be the preachers, and the points where services will be held include Duncan, Ladysmith, Parksville, Alberni, Port Alberni, Cumberland and Courtenay.

The completion of plans for the mission fitted in well with yesterday's programme of the sessions, devoted to the work of evangelism, with Dean Quainton delivering a stirring plea for a new spirit in the morning, and four ministers discussing various phases of evangelistic work in the afternoon.

The co-operation of the two churches was symbolized in the morning, when Dean Quainton conducted the Presbytery in an Anglican form of service.

Earlier another noteworthy step had been taken with the election of a layman, Arthur Lee, to the chairmanship of the Presbytery.

COMMISSIONERS' REPORT

This morning the Presbytery sessions came to an end, with Rev. Dr. W. G. Wilson, Rev. Dr. G. B. Switzer, Mr. Church and W. T. Straith reporting on the general council of the United Church at Ottawa, which they attended as commissioners for the Victoria Presbytery.

Rev. Dr. J. K. Unsworth, Rev. A. O. Paterson, Mr. Church and Rev. J. A. Petrie were the speakers in the discussion on evangelism yesterday afternoon.

Dr. Unsworth stressed the closer co-operation of the various denominations in a movement towards the deepening of the church's spiritual life.

The Christian church must become really Christian itself before it could make a spiritual impact on the world, said Mr. Paterson. The first need in the work of evangelization was for the agents of it to become evangelized themselves.

Mr. Church told of the methods by which he had helped more than 100 people find their place in Christian life, and of the joy which he found in helping those who were mentally and spiritually in need.

Mr. Petrie spoke of Christ as the perfect expression of God in human life. His subject was "What Jesus Means to Me."

Following the four addresses John Goldie, convener of the missionary and maintenance committee, made an appeal for a new effort for increased contributions for the fund.

During the course of the day the following appointments to convenerships of committees were announced: Mr. Lee, property committee; Rev. F. W. Anderson, education and students; Dr. Switzer, evangelism and social service; Rev. William Allan, Rev. Thomas Keyworth and J. S. Conibear, finance; Rev. Dr. A. D. Reid, foreign missions fund; Dr. Unsworth, historical committee; Rev. Bryce Wallace, home missions; Mr. Goldie, missionary and maintenance; Rev. J. H. Wright, pensions; Mr. Church, pastoral relations; Mr. Petrie, publications; Rev. E. W. Horton, religious education, and Rev. A. S. Gay, statistics.

Last night the Presbytery heard from Rev. Daniel S. Ridout, Toronto, editor of The Missionary Record, a call for an heroic effort to meet missionary needs at home and abroad.

Mr. Ridout described a 30,000-mile tour of Africa which he made last year, and illustrated his words with colored lantern slides.

KIWANIS CLUB HOLDS SMOKER

Members Provide Entertainment at Reunion With Former Clubmen

Members of the Kiwanis Club renewed acquaintances with many former members of the club yesterday evening at a smoker and dinner concert held in the Douglas Cafe, at which the programme was presented by Kiwanians.

W. A. Luney, president, presided during the dinner and E. H. M. Foote was master of ceremonies during the entertainment.

Brief talks were given by Kenneth Ferguson, Herbert Stevens, Joseph B. Clearihue, R. W. MacKenzie, Donald McAdie, S. J. D. Clack and Harold M. Diggon, past presidents of the club, who recalled some humorous reminiscences. Atwell King told of some of the trials of a railway claims agent.

Contributing to the entertainment were the Kiwanis quartette, consisting of Harry Douglas, Austin Curtis, F. E. Francis and Harold Hinton, with Archie Gibbs at the piano; Rev. E. F. Church, who recited "The Stove-Pipe Hole," a habitant poem by Henry Drummond; Gordon Denholm, vocalist, accompanied by Lawrence Mallek and Ralph Mathews, who recited "The Green Eye of the Little Yellow God."

One of the entertainment features was a humorous sketch "If Men Played Bridge as Women Do." Joseph Rose, Hugh Allan, Murray Martindale and Leslie Aylard played the roles of four gossipy women out for an afternoon's bridge.

Some excellent card tricks were contributed by Harold Diggon. Two songs were rendered by Fred Francis. A hidden song contest was conducted by Ed. Mallek, Vic King and Arthur Roberts, with Lawrence Mallek at the piano.

The Secret Society

"Have you heard the latest about the women of the village?" asked Bragg.

"Haven't heard a thing," said Spragg enquiringly.

"They've formed a secret society," Bragg told him.

Spragg burst into a roar of uncontrollable laughter. "That's rich," he replied at length. "Why, women don't know how to keep a secret."

"But this society isn't to keep secrets," returned Bragg. "It's to tell them."

Anscomb Cup Interleague Football Series Will Be Resumed

THE SPORTS MIRROR

By PETE SALLAWAY

PLIGHT of the luckless New York Americans today contrasts strangely with the more fortunate circumstances of their intracity rivals, New York Rangers of the National Hockey League. When William V. Dwyer Sr., Col. John Hammond and the late Tex Rickard combined in 1925 to "put over" the dashing sport imported from Canada, the former financed the purchase of the old Hamilton Tigers. The powerful Bengals had won the right to compete in the Stanley Cup final but went on strike over salary and bonus troubles.

* * *

The club was moved into New York and under the name of the Americans was granted all territorial rights in Manhattan. A year later, however, Dwyer consented to allow Madison Square Garden, with Col. Hammond in charge, to organize and operate a club in New York which has since gained fame as the blue-shirted Rangers. The latter club has prospered and hockey is passing huge dividends to the Garden Corporation. Rangers operate Philadelphia Ramblers of the International American League and Rovers, a great Sunday afternoon attraction at the garden, where they play their home games in the Eastern Amateur League.

* * *

Americans, however, have never threatened seriously to snare the coveted Stanley Cup, world championship emblem. Rangers have made the play-offs ten times in eleven years and won the cup thrice. The Americans have gained the first round of the play-offs once and the second round once.

Twenty straight victories, and twenty-six games without a defeat. That is the record of American football teams from Minnesota University. The Gophers, who opened ths season's campaign, with a great win over the Washington Huskies at Seattle, equalled what is generally considered the finest consecutive game record on Saturday. That is the twenty in a row compiled by Notre Dame when the Irish, coached by the great Knute Rockne, were unbeaten in 1929 and 1930, and repulsed Indiana in their first contest under Hunk Anderson in 1931.

* * *

Southern California captured twenty-five consecutive engagements after being turned back by Saint Mary's in its opener of 1931. That is the most protracted winning streak in modern major football.

But, while the Trojans repelled some very fine varsities, including Notre Dame, Pittsburgh and one of the strongest clubs ever produced at Tulane, their schedules included some comparative breathers.

Southern California's assignments week in and week out fell a bit shy of being as tough as those tackled by Notre Dame in its triumphant march and those faced by Minnesota in its current drive.

* * *

There were several phenomenal consecutive game records in the olden days.

Yale and Harvard set dizzy paces in streaks. Fielding H. Yost's point-a-minute Michigan machines captured twenty-nine consecutive contests starting in 1901. Then, when the Wolverines were tied by Minnesota in 1903, they swung right into another unbroken string of twenty-six. Gilmour Dobie accounted for thirty-nine in succession at the University of Washington from 1908 to 1914.

Valuable Dog Is Poison Victim

Nanaimo, Oct. 21.—"Rosie of Glenora," C.K.C. 8123, seven-year-old valuable Irish Setter bitch owned by Jack Cottle of the Northfield Kennels, 260 Needham Street, was poisoned on the highway near the old Gordon Farm, beyond Reserve Mine, while Jack and his son, Arnold, were hunting there on Sunday.

Both hunters saw Rosie go to the side of the road and pick up something, which the dog swallowed. She collapsed and died when they reached the rock cut.

This valuable dog was bred by the well-known bench and field champion, Ronald of Boyne, imported by Dr. W. S. Hall of Edmonton, Alta., in 1928. She was shipped to Jack Cottle in September of the following year when seven months old, and several fine Irish Setters bred from her are to be found throughout the province.

Saturday League Meets Wednesday Club November 11

Representative Elevens Will Clash at Athletic Park on Armistice Day

Seattle Teams Call Off Games

Resumption of the Anscomb Cup series between representative teams from the Victoria and District Football League and the Wednesday League will take place this season, with the opening game of the best two-out-three series, scheduled for Armistice Day, November 11, at the Athletic Park. This was the announcement made today by Pat Mulcahy, secretary of the V.D.F.L.

The interleague series is being resumed after a lapse of several years. The Saturday Leaguers are the present holders of the trophy. The contending clubs have not been named but both leagues are certain to place their strongest available clubs on the field for the holiday attraction.

SEATTLE GAMES OFF

Mulcahy announced today that plans for exhibition games between first division clubs of the Victoria league and Seattle elevens were definitely off. This action was the result of the refusal of the Sound City clubs to come here for the matches, after they had been told by Johnny Richardson, secretary of the British Columbia Football Commision, that Vancouver teams would not play in Seattle if the Seattle teams came here for matches with unaffiliated clubs. The Victoria teams have not affiliated with the B.C. Commission following their refusing the entry of Victoria United in the Intercity League. Seattle, under threat of having Vancouver games cancelled, have decided to drop the Victoria proposition.

The first round of the Milton Cup knockout series will get under way a week from Saturday at the Athletic Park with Victoria West, first division leaders, meeting Victoria City. W. J. Cull will referee. In the second match Esquimalt and the Saanich Thistles will clash at the Bullen Park with J. C. Dowds in charge. Both matches will start at 2.30 o'clock.

PRICE CUP FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

Memorial Trophy to Be Symbolic of Greater Victoria Football Title

Soccer elevens in the Victoria and District Football League will henceforth have as their objective for district supremacy the Freddie Price Memorial Trophy, presented to perpetuate the memory of the late Freddie Price, well known in soccer circles, league officials, who have been named trustees of the cup, decided yesterday.

The presentation was made possible through the donations of football pals of the late player and his many friends and admirers, to a fund built up for the specific purpose of buying the trophy. It will be a perpetual challenge cup and can never be won outright.

Victoria West, Victoria City, Saanich Thistles and Esquimalt, first division elevens in the league, will battle for the silverware in a knock-out series, yet to be arranged.

The trustees are Dr. Arthur Poyntz, Joe Bloom, John Ewing, James Mesher and P. J. Mulcahy.

TO PRESENT ALDOUS CUP

Annual Banquet Will Wind Up Season of Y.M.C.A. Track and Field Club

Warren W. Martin, president of the Y.M.C.A. track and field club, announced this morning the annual banquet of the club at which the coveted Aldous trophy is presented will be held next Friday at the Y.M.C.A.

The dinner which officially winds up the season, will offer in the way of programme, a lecture by Archie McKinnon, following which a round table discussion on the Harriers' club will be held.

The winner of the trophy, to be held for one year only, is determined by ballot, a number of which are sent out to members of the track and field club to mark one for election of those nominations forwarded. As Chuck Cunningham, Joe Addison and Bill Dale have all held the trophy once, they are ineligible for election a second time.

JUSTICE AT THE BAR

"Hear Ye, Hear Ye, this honorable court is now in session and if anybody wants a snort before we start step up to the bar and name your poison!" With these words, spoken by "His Honor" himself, proceedings in the court of Roy Bean, Justice of the Peace, precinct No. 3, Val Verde County, Texas, were regularly and officially opened.

Proprietor of the "Jersey Lilly," a saloon in the hell-roaring, swashbuckling railroad town of Langtry, Bean was elected Justice of the Peace in 1884. With a pistol butt for a gavel, a single law book, "The Revised Statues of the State of Texas," serving as his entire law library, and with his saloon serving as his courtroom "Judge" Bean well lived up to his self-styled title, "The Law West of the Pecos." He held office with a firm hand.

There was no jail in Langtry but none was needed. All persons found guilty before the court were given one of two penalties—hanging or firing! The proceeds of the latter always found their way to "His Honor's" own pocket. Any form of stealing was punishable by hanging.

Bean served an unbroken term of office until 1894, when he was defeated by a Mexican. Elected to the office again in 1900, he served until his death in 1903.

EXPLODING TREES

Sap and moisture in the tissues of a tree struck by lightning are frequently turned to gas. The sudden expansion of the gas causes an explosion which often blows the tree to pieces.

WASHINGTON'S MULE

The exportation of full-blooded jackasses was once forbidden in Spain. This ban was lifted by the Spanish king who, in answer to George Washington's request, agreed to to let him have a pair. One of the beasts died during the journey, but the other arrived safely at Mt. Vernon, December 5, 1785

Named "Royal Gift" by Washington, the jack was bred with a mare, producing the first mule in the United States.

ICE FORWARDS WILL BORE IN

New N.H.L. Rule on Assists Will Make Front Line Men More Aggressive

Oshawa, Ont., Oct. 21.—Puck-carriers will be boring further in during this next National Hockey League season because of the new rule limiting assists on a goal to two.

That is on the authority of Art Chapman, who is qualified to broadcast opinions on the matter. The New York American centre has developed the art of puck chasing to the stage where he has led the league in assists for the last two seasons.

Arthur paused in his training labors at the American camp today to remark that the boys will not be passing the puck in the centre zone after this. "They will be more apt to carry it right in there and qualify for the assist point before slipping it to someone else," the Winnipeg centre said.

"But all the gang here are glad this business of three and four assists on the one goal has been tossed overboard. Why, it had reached the stage where defencemen handling the puck behind the blue line got assists. And last year Tiny Thompson, the Boston goalie, got one for passing the puck out to Eddie Shore. It cheapened them."

Hockey experts consider the new rule made at the board of governors meeting in New York, Monday, will cut the total points awarded the players by something like twenty-five per cent. If the scorers observe the rule that an assist must not be credited when a goal is scored from a rebound off a goalkeeper, the reduction may be even greater.

GEHRIG MAY TRY MOVIES

Home Run King of New York Yankees Suggested As Next Tarzan; Would Replace Johnny Weismuller, Former Swimming Champion, In Role

New York, Oct. 21.—Lou Gehrig has offered his talent to Hollywood.

He is willing temporarily to swap the "Iron Man" monicker for "Tarzan."

Christy Walsh, business manager of the Yankees' home run king, heard they're going to produce a series of Tarzan pictures in the cinema capital, and with the veteran Tarzan, Johnny Weissmuller, reported on the sidelines, suggested the home run king for the role.

"Afraid of animals?" asked Lou. "No! At least I'm not afraid of tigers—I've faced many of them in twelve years of baseball — but those lions, well, we'll have to wait and see."

Gehrig's movie venture is in a nebulous stage. Walsh wrote Sol Lesser, Hollywood producer, who said they'd never seen Lou other than in a flannel baseball suit. So pictures now are in the mail.

"I guess the public's entitled to look at my body," said Lou, blushing at the idea of appearing in only a skimpy leopard cloth.

Of course there'll have to be a leading lady playing opposite him. Whom would he prefer, someone asked. Lou squirmed uneasily in his chair and said:

"I could act much better with my wife in my arms."

However, in the next breath, he admitted Irene Dunne is his screen favorite.

"Do you think you have as much S.A. as Weissmuller?" he was asked.

"How's that?

"S.A., you know—sex appeal."

"I'll leave that up to you fellows and the ladies—if I get the chance."

STEELE WILL SEE ACTION

Middleweight Champ Meets Allen Matthews at Seattle Tonight

Seattle, Oct. 21.—Middleweight Champion Freddie Steele faced a severe test of his boxing skill here tonight in a ten-round battle with the hard-punching Allen Matthews, St. Louis negro.

A crowd of more than 5,000 was expected to attend the non-title bout in the Civic Auditorium, the last battle scheduled for Steele in the Pacific northwest for some time. He probably will leave soon on an invasion of the east.

Both weighed in at athletic commission headquarters this afternoon, Steele around 156 pounds and Matthews between 160 and 162. The St. Louis youngster posted $1,000 to come in between those figures.

Club to Resume Saturday Rides

The Victoria Riding Club will resume its Saturday afternoon rides from the academy, Willows, commencing next Saturday. All riders interested are cordially invited to attend. Rides will begin at 2.45 o'clock, after which tea will be served in the club rooms.

Barney Ross Gets Anxious To Fight

Welterweight Champ Ends Roughing Campaign in Woods and Prepares For Bout November 27; Harry Balsamo Finds Services Much in Demand

Chicago, Oct. 21.—Barney Ross, welterweight champion of the world, today starts hunting for chins to punch.

Back from seventeen days of roughing it in the Wisconsin woods, the 147-pound titleholder opened a training campaign preparatory to the first defence of his championship since he dethroned Jimmy McLarnin, Vancouver puncher, for the second time more than a year ago.

He has signed to meet the winner of the Izzy Jannazzo-Ceferino Garcia bout slated for New York October 30. The title contest is set for Madison Square Garden November 27.

The black-haired champion plans a busy winter season in the United States, since the collapse of negotiations for a bout with Jack Carroll, Australian challenger, originally scheduled for Sydney, N.S.W., on December 8. Charles Lucas, the Australian promoter, still is burning up the cables trying to reopen negotiations, but Sam Pian, co-manager of Ross, said he would give no further consideration to the Australian venture, so long as opponents are available in this country.

"After meeting the winner of the Jannazzo-Garcia affair, there is McLarnin in sight as a possible opponent, and also Lou Ambers," said Pian. "Ross is spoiling for a fight and chafing under the inactivity. He wants action and is ready for it."

New York, Oct. 21.—Mike Jacobs, who made a fortune with Joe Louis, is getting ready to reap another harvest of gold with the good right hand of young Harry Balsamo, the new middleweight challenger.

Since the former subway brakeman deftly polished off Eric Seelig with a startling one-round knockout last week to place himself definitely on the list of title contenders, offers for his services have poured in from every direction.

Even the far west, where Eddie Steele, ruler of the 160-pound division, makes headquarters, is bidding for a glimpse of the lad whose hitting power is compared to that of the Brown Bomber, weights considered.

HAS LONG CONTRACT

Jacobs, who tied Louis to a long-term contract the moment the negro showed signs of developing into a box office attraction, has done the same with Balsamo.

For the next five years the Italian will do all his fighting for Jacobs. Balsamo is owned and managed by two New York businessmen, but it will be up to the head of the 20th Century Sporting Club to say when, where and whom the youngster fights.

Balsamo will go to the post in the New York hippodrome October 28 against Babe Risko, former middleweight champion. After that he will be booked for headline fights in other cities.

Philadelphia, Detroit, Cleveland and Chicago are some of the places where Jacobs expects to show his new meal ticket.

INDIAN KILLS BIGGEST DEER

Jasper Charles Leads in Competition For Sylvester U Drive Trophy

Jasper Charles, Jordan River Indian, who won fame by finishing second with his partner in the Victoria-Port Angeles canoe derby in September, has now established himself as a hunter. According to an announcement today by Bill Sylvester, Charles has weighed in the largest buck deer in the competition for the Sylvester U Drive Cup, presented annually to the Vancouver Island hunter shooting the heaviest buck.

To date thirty fine specimens have been placed on the scales at the company's headquarters, Douglas Street. They have been sent in from all parts of the island. Sylvester stated there is still plenty of room left for a whining buck, and all hunters who bring down a good-sized deer are urged to weigh in their kill.

In addition to the main trophy, second and third prizes will be awarded, while a special consolation award will be made to the hunter weighing in the smallest deer.

Hockey Gossip

When Davie Kerr takes the ice next time with New York Rangers at their Winnipeg training camp, he will pay more attention to what the well-dressed hockey player should wear—or at least how he should wear it. The goalie complained yesterday that he could not move his arms very well when diving around trying to stop pucks. When he retired to the dressing room after the drill, he found he had donned his shoulder harness back to front.

Andy Mulligan, former University of Manitoba player, will play with Minneapolis Millers in the American Association. Manager Joe Simpson announced he had purchased the big defenceman's contract outright from Providence Reds.

* * *

Goalkeepers came in for plenty of attention at Galt where Dick Irvin is driving Toronto Maple Leafs into condition. George Hainsworth, goalie for the blueshirts, admitted he would have to play top form to keep young Turk Broda, former Brandon boy, or Phil Stein, Toronto product, from getting his job.

* * *

Always a team to play the brand of hockey fans like, Leafs will be even more aggressive this season, club officials claim. Last year Smythe threatened to send his boys out to play tight defensive hockey when other teams refused to open up. But the style did not seem to suit his proteges, and no more attempts will be made at Kitty-bar-the-door tactics.

Leisurely skating and medicine-ball tossing supplied action for twenty-one Bruins candidates at Boston. Among the absentees in addition to Eddie Shore, who has been killing pigs on his Alberta farm, were Tiny Thompson, Max Kaminsky and Nels Stewart. The club will practice for the remainder of the week at Boston Gardens before leaving Sunday for the Maritime provinces tour with Montreal Maroons.

Another westerner who has never performed under the big tent will be given a chance to make good as an N.H.L. referee. President Frank Calder has announced Clarence Campbell, Edmonton lawyer, will report next week at the league's school of referees at Montreal.

Just as Doug Young was beginning to regain his calm after being held blameless in a Detroit court for injuries suffered by a woman hit by his stick during a game last February, his hickory accidentally struck Verne Johnson during a Detroit Red Wings workout. The Brandon amateur candidate was not seriously hurt.

Manager Red Dutton had little to say about possible new owners of New York Americans as he put his charges through their pace at Oshawa, Ont. He was too busy concentrating on conditioning Hal Cotton and Harry Oliver, his two veterans.

Montreal Maroons seem to be going in for a balanced diet of athletic activities as they prowl about their home quarters. First it was bicycle riding and now its softball that Tom Gorman is presenting for approval of the redshirts.

* * *

Gorman hopes that two young amateurs he has in camp perform as well at hockey as they do in the kittenball art. Sid Graddock, husky junior graduate from Moose Jaw, Sask., and Ken Grivel, Toronto Mercantile League star, played prominent parts in the diamond tussle.

Arena Absolved In Damage Suit

Detroit, Oct. 21.—The Olympia Arena, home of Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League, was freed yesterday of responsibility for injuries suffered by Mrs. Doris Geldart during a hockey game last February. The court found no cause for action and entered a directed verdict.

Mrs. Geldart was suing the Olympia and Captain Douglas Young of the Wings for $10,000 each, alleging Young struck her in the face with a hockey stick during a game in the arena. When the decision was announced, Mrs. Geldart, through her attorney, withdrew her suit against Young.

Judge Arthur Webster said no negligence was shown in the testimony and that Mrs. Geldart assumed her own risk in taking a seat near the railing. Frank Calder, N.H.L. president, arrived too late to testify for Young.

England Defeats Scotland In Interleague Soccer Match

Nets Two Goals In Opening Half For Shutout Win

Revamped Eleven Proves Vastly Superior to Scots in Game at Everton

Westwood And Bastin Score

Canadian Press

Everton, Eng., Oct. 21. —A revamped English League soccer team today defeated the Scottish League, 2 to 0, in the second match this season of the interleague tournament. Twenty-five thousand spectators saw a thrilling tussle in which the wearers of the rose were the faster squad and deserved their victory.

Vanquished 3 to 2 by the Irish League in first interleague tussle of the season England fielded practically a new team against its Scottish rivals. Westwood of Bolton Wanderers being the only player to retain his place. Scotland was represented by a strong eleven.

The English squad was the more aggressive in the early stages and Dawson had several narrow escapes in the Scottish goal. Anderson cleared a centre by Crooks and then Dean headed inches wide on two occasions. A little later Dawson just beat Dean in a race for the ball.

SCORE FROM PENALTY

At the other end Holdcroft had his first shot to handle after fourteen minutes of play. He saved a long drive by McPhail. A minute later Westwood was brought down in the penalty area and Bastin put England in the lead from the kick.

The Scottish Leaguers attacked and forced Holdcroft to make a clever save, but again England went down the field and Dawson cleared shots by Richardson and Gee. Armstrong, Aberdeen centre-forward, proved a dangerous raider for the Scots and tested Holdcroft with a hard low drive

Westwood put the home team two up after thirty-six minutes, flicking a smart centre by Bastin into the net although he was worried by two defenders.

In the second half both teams fought hard but the goalies blocked all efforts to score additional goals.

The teams:

Scottish League — Goal, Dawson (Rangers); backs, Anderson (Hearts), Watson (Airdrieonians); half-backs, Geatons (Celtic), Smith (Kilmarnock). Brown (Rangers); forwards, Delaney (Celtic), Walker (Hearts), Armstrong (Aberdeen), McPhail, Kinnear (Rangers).

English League — Goal, Holdcroft (Preston North End); backs, Male (Arsenal), Catlin (Sheffield Wednesday), half-backs, Britton, Gee (Everton), Keen (Derby County); forwards, Crooks (Derby County), Richardson (Huddersfield Town), Dean (Everton), Westwood (Bolton Wanderers), Bastin (Arsenal).

MRS. JARRETT STATES PLANS

Will Wait Until Brundage Retires Before Seeking Her Athletic Status

New York, Oct. 21. — Eleanor Holm Jarrett will wait until Avery Brundage retires from the presidency of the Amateur Athletic Union, and then ask the new A.A.U. regime whether she is a professional or an amateur.

Back from the most successful vaudeville tour of her theatrical career, Mrs. Jarrett said the A. A. U. had officially barred her from European competition and had refused to give its sanction to an amateur meet in which she was entered after returning from the Olympics, but it had not declared her professional.

"I'm hoping for the best, but I'm prepared for the worst," she stated. "I definitely want to keep my amateur standing, and see no reason why I should not. But if they declare me professional I will go on the stage with a vaudeville swimming troupe, which will include most of the outstanding amateurs."

Mrs. Jarrett said her troupe probably would include Dorothy Poynton Hill, Jack Medica, Dick Degener, Marshall Wayne, Lenore Kight Wingard, Adolph Kiefer, Georgia Coleman and Jane Fauntz.

Though most of these are now amateurs, Mrs. Jarrett said they had agreed to turn professional if she organized the troupe.

Good Sea Trout Run in Gorge

Sea trout measuring sixteen and seventeen inches and in good condition are being taken in the waters of the Gorge in the vicinity of Rodd's boathouse.

Reports also state they are quite plentiful at the mouth of Sooke River. These fighting fish are being taken on silver-bodied bucktail and feathered flies or spinner and worm. One angler took seven from the Gorge Monday evening where the best fishing time is an hour before ebb tide.

Plane Motors Plants Speeded

Six Factories to Be Erected in Britain and Held in Reserve

Canadian Press

London, Oct. 21.—Six government-owned factories for the production of airplane engines for the Royal Air Force will shortly be erected, an Air Ministry official announced today.

Firms which have undertaken the erection and management of the factories for the government are the Austin Motor Co. Ltd., the Bristol Airplane Co. Ltd., the Daimler Co. Ltd., the Rover Co. Ltd., Standard Cars Ltd. and Rootes Securities Ltd. The last-named controls the production of Humber, Sunbeam and Talbot motors.

Under the Air Ministry scheme the plants will be built close to those of the managing firms and will be for use in emergency only. After a trial they will be closed down, but will be held ready for immediate mass production in a crisis. Work on some of the factories was said to have already been begun.

SURPRISE VOICED

The government's announcement evoked surprise in some quarters that none of the organizations created by Lord Nuffield, the former Sir William Morris and founder of the vast Morris motors concern, were included in the list.

The air correspondent of The London News-Chronicle said that Wolsley Motors Ltd., one of Lord Nuffield's companons, had withdrawn from the government scheme for a "shadow aircraft industry."

Lord Nuffield has also closed down the workshops of Wolsley Aero-Engines Ltd. and canceled an Air Ministry contract to supply several hundred engines, said the correspondent.

PROFITS LIMITED

It is understood that as far as Wolsley Aero-Engines are concerned, the paper stated, Lord Nuffield objected to working on the government's contract system and method of limiting profit, and as a result of this disagreement in principle canceled the contract and closed the works. This brought to a sudden stop five years' work on the development of new radial engines which cost £200,000 ($1,000,000).

The London Morning Post's air correspondent, however, quoted a statement of the Air Ministry to the effect that no dispute had arisen with Lord Nuffield and that the reason for the withdrawal of Wolsley motors was a change in management.

F. S. Cunliffe Is Re-elected

The slate of officers follows: Honorary president, Hon. R. B. Bennett; honorary vice-presidents, Dr. F. T. Patterson and R. A. Wootton; president, F. S. Cunliffe; vice-president, E. D. Stone; secretary-treasurer, R. C. Dagg; executive, J. Moore, A. B. Schofield, N. L. Stephenson and H. Armishaw, for Nanaimo; H. Marks and G. Dingsdale for east district, and S. Wrotnowski and E. Motion for west district.

Light Rays Make Eggs Confess Age

Amsterdam, Oct. 19.—Eggs can be made to tell the truth about their age by exposing them to ultraviolet light, it has been discovered at the University of Utrecht.

The trick depends on the phenomenon known as fluorescence. Ultraviolet radiation is itself invisible to the human eye, but it causes various substances to shine with light of different colors, or to fluoresce.

To the human eye an egg is just an egg. But under a beam of ultraviolet, a really fresh-laid egg glows with a very pronounced red coloration. Less freshly laid eggs shade into blue, and the older they are the deeper is the blue.

Investigators at the University of Utrecht first made use of this new tool of the scientists to select eggs for storage.

A quantity of eggs were classified as to age by ultraviolet and then placed in storage. After six months not one of the "quite freshly laid" eggs had to be discarded. In another group identified by the ultraviolet light as "freshly laid," 1 per cent had to be thrown away when brought out for use at the end of the six months. In a third group of "not freshly laid" eggs, 8 per cent were discarded, and in a fourth group, recognized at the beginning as doubtful, 15 per cent had to be rejected.

Adam Bell, Deputy Minister of Labor for British Columbia, has been appointed fifth vice-president of the International Association of Government Labor Officials, according to advices received from the head offices of the organization in Washington, D.C. The annual meeting was held on September 26, when Mr. Bell was elected. This position places him on the executive of the association, which has a membership all over the continent.

"Bounding Table" For "Y" Tumblers

Bigger and better acrobatics is the slogan of the Y.M.C.A. tumblers. The most recent acquisition to their equipment is a "bounding table" which consists of a large piece of heavy canvas suspended between a 14x10 table-frame about three feet from the ground. The canvas is attached to the frame by short strands of thick elastic rubber at four-inch intervals all around the edge. This gives it plenty of spring, reduces the danger of banging heads on the floor as in floor tumbling, and permits the execution of stunts not possible in the orthodox brand of tumbling.

With a view to building up a feature tumbling act for the annual show next spring, this piece of apparatus is being set up now at the Y.M.C.A. and will soon be available for use.

Archie McKinnon, physical director, will handling the coaching end, being an expert at the game. Plenty of throw in the shoulders is all that is needed for the basis of the art and with a good "bound" off the table, all manner of stunts can be executed.

Tom Mobraaten Wed Yesterday

Quesnel, Oct. 21.—Tom Mobraaten, British Columbia's representative on the Canadian ski team at the Olympic Games this year, and Margaret "Peggy" Harlin, were married in the United Church manse here yesterday, Rev. Evan Fullerton officiating.

The bride a member of the Vancouver Ski Club and holder of the Canadian downhill and Slalom women's championships, arrived here shortly before the ceremony with her mother, Mrs. Margaret Harlin, Vancouver.

Amateur Union To Face Severe Test

Open Revolt Is Possible If A.A.U. Fails to Fall in Line With Suggestions of Canadian Hockey and Lacrosse Authorities

Toronto, Oct. 21.—Rampant discontent, organized at last and apparently equal to the task of at least jolting the existing set-up, flared across the amateur sanctums of the country, gathering up force for the annual meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada in Regina, next month.

It was a huge joke a few years ago when the affiliated federations and associations prepared their preconvention T.N.T. packages. Such was the authority and power of the A.A.U. in those days.

But revolt is in the air now, and the Regina meeting will provide the most serious test of A.A.U. stability and authority yet conducted. A month before the delegates assemble, it seems unlikely such widely separated viewpoints as those of the A.A.U. and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association can be brought together.

MAY SEVER RELATIONS

The powerful C.A.H.A., strongest of the A.A.U.'s allied sport-controlling organizations, will lead a determined opposition to the old style of things. If the hockey association fails to convince the convention, then the C.A.H.A. in all probability will sever its relations and operate independently.

It demands that hockey players have the right to: (1) use their ability as athletes to get employment; (2) accept payment for time lost from work while competing; (3) play as teams against professionals. A fourth demand is that professionals in one sport be regarded as amateurs in all others.

Mr. Fry, who retires this year as head of the A.A.U. of C., will tell the convention adoption of this programme would isolate Canada in the amateur world. The country would be unable to send teams to the Olympic and British Empire Games. In other words, Canadian amateurs would have no status abroad.

The C.H.A. knew this when it decided last April to adopt the four-point alteration. So did the Canadian Amateur Lacrosse Association when it supported the hockey platform the other day in Toronto. So it seems Mr. Fry's warning has failed as a deterrent.

Two branches of the Canadian Amateur Basketball Association, British Columbia and Ontario, have passed resolutions in which they claim that basketball players need not obtain amateur cards during provincial schedules, but only when they engage in interprovincial play.

Cowichan Women Win Golf Trophy

Duncan, Oct. 21.—The second match for the Spencer Cup played for between the women members of the Cowichan and Nanaimo golf clubs took place at Duncan on Monday. Cowichan won by 17½ to 3½, to wipe out the three-point lead Nanaimo secured in the match played on their home links.

Scores, with the Cowichan players first named, follow:

Miss Peterson 3, Mrs. Stevens 0; Miss Duncan 3, Mrs. Mitchell 0; Mrs. Aldersey 3, Mrs. Glaholm 0; Mrs. Longbourne ½, Mrs. Vater 2½; Mrs. Prest 2, Mrs. Cunliffe 1; Mrs. Maclachlan 3, Mrs. Murphy 0; Mrs. Boyd-Wallis 3, Mrs. McVickers 0.

NEWS IN BRIEF

A special meeting of the Victoria Poultry Association will be held at the Y.M.C.A. at 8 o'clock. All those interested in showing birds at the winter show are invited to attend.

The Y.M.C.A. Swimming Club will hold its first social of the season tonight at 8 o'clock, when the general programme will be drawn up for the winter. The club will swim at 8 o'clock and will meet at 9 o'clock.

With the appointment today of eight stenographers, the sessional staff for the Legislature was completed. The following received appointments: Misses A. Dawson, P. Pennock, R Norris, M. Pass, M. Winterbottom, M. Langley, A. McLellan and L. Bowron.

On two charges of obtaining money by false pretences, Wo Sun, Chinese, was remanded until tomorrow morning when he pleaded not guilty in the City Police Court this morning. He is alleged to have obtained $26.30 in cash and $3.70 in goods from Victor Lang, and $20 cash from George Rowe, Government Street.

Prizes in a competition for essays of 5,000 words or less on the theme of "Pacifism Is Not Enough," as treated by Lord Lothian in a Burge memorial address of that title, are being offered by H. H. Willcox, Uplands. Competitors may obtain details of the competition from the secretary of the League of Nations Society, 1006 Government Street.

The Island Arts and Crafts Society will hold its annual exhibition in the Coast Hall, over 1418 Douglas Street, all next week. His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor will formally open the exhibition on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The crafts section is unusually large and good this year, and the oil paintings and water colors are more numerous than ever.

The regular meetings of the Men's Parish Guild of Christ Church Cathedral will be resumed tomorrow evening in the Guild Room of the Memorial Hall, at 8 o'clock, when the Hon. S. F. Tolmie, M.P., will give some of his reminiscences of old Victoria. This meeting is open to men, whether members or not. The subject is one that will appeal to many, and a large attendance is expected.

The annual "prelim" welcoming of the Victoria High School will be on Friday afternoon when all first-year students will assemble in the auditorium. Joe Adam, president of the Students' Council, will welcome them. Presidents of the first-year classes will deliver speeches. A prize will be given for the best speech. After the programme a dance will be held in the gymnasium.

"Often when you have read about a place beforehand you are disappointed when you go there. I had read a lot about Victoria, and it is just as I had pictured it. I think it is fine," said R. W. Ritchie of the Canadian Pacific passenger department, Winnipeg, at the Strathcona Hotel this morning. Mr. Ritchie is spending his holidays touring the west and is at present making his first acquaintance with this city. He was especially impressed with the trip across from Vancouver.

The congregation of Fairfield United Church will hold its annual dinner and lecture next Monday evening. The anniversary dinner will be served in the social hall at 6.30 o'clock. This will be followed by a concert and lecture in the church auditorium at 8 o'clock. Cyril C. Warren, organist and choir conductor, has charge of the concert arrangements. Rev. J. Richmond Craig, who is well known throughout Canada as a brilliant raconteur, will give a lecture on "Scottish Wit and Humor."

Thirteen tables of progressive five hundred were in play at the weekly card party held by the Victoria West Liberal Social Club in their headquarters, 414 Skinner Street, last night. The winners of the prizes were: First ladies, Mrs. Carlow; second, Mrs. Salter; gentlemen's first, C. Vasheresse; second, Mr. Douglas; specials, Miss Mutch and Mrs. Pearce. The mystery box was won by Mr. Pearce. On Friday evening October 30, the card commitee will stage a military five hundred card party. There will be a tombola as well as good cards and refreshments.

The first of the winter series of social functions planned by Majestic Council, the local branch of the Royal Arcanum, will be held on Friday night next in the Knights of Columbus Hall, Government Street. It will take the form of "A Nite in the Nineties" and the committee in charge, under the chairmanship of Brother J. Stewart, promises something novel in the way of entertainment. There will be games, musical and comic numbers, dancing and refreshments, and it is expected that a large number of the members of the order and their friends will be in attendance. Prizes will be given to the lady and gentleman attending in the costume most appropriate to the occasion, a night in the "Gay Nineties."

Rev. A. E. Danks of Chemainus, northwestern representative of the Biblical Research Society, addressed a large audience of young people and friends in the schoolroom of Emmanuel Baptist Church on Tuesday evening. Mr. Danks divided his lecture into two parts, namely, "The Return of Jews to Palestine" and "The Aim and Operation of the Biblical Research Society." Illustrating his address with slides, the speaker showed the changes in the cities and countryside of Palestine since the Turks ceased to rule, and the marvelous work being done by the Biblical Research Society in publishing and distributing free literature to the Jewish race throughout the world. The next meeting of the First and Emmanuel Baptist Co-operative Y.P.U. will be held in First Baptist Church, Tuesday, November 3. The speaker and subject will be announced later.

Clothing Near Murder Scene

Articles Found Have No Connection With Gravlin Case, Police Say

Articles of clothing found on the Oak Bay golf links near the place where Mrs. Doris Gravlin was found murdered six weeks ago have no connection with the case, Oak Bay police asserted today.

Several pieces of men's clothing, including shirts and old shoes, have been turned in to the police recently. They were found by caddies on the links.

Officers have checked up on these and are satisfied that they have nothing to do with the murder case.

Meanwhile the search for Victor R. Gravlin, husband of the murdered woman, and wanted in connection with her death, is continuing. Circulars have been distributed to police all over the continent.

FINDS COAST TRAVEL WISE

George I. Warren Back in City After 2,700-mile Auto Tour

After traveling 2,700 miles by automobile, attending the Shasta-Cascade Wonderland Association conference at Klamath Falls, Oregon; the annual meeting of the Redwood Empire Association at Crescent City, Cal., and the Oregon Coast Highway Association parley at Tillamook, Ore., George I. Warren, publicity commissioner, returned to Victoria today.

Altogether he attended twenty-six meetings, spoke before fourteen different audiences, and at Medford, Ore., gave a radio broadcast on Victoria as a tourist and recreational centre.

The publicity commissioner conferred with travel directors all along the Pacific Coast and secured the active co-operation of several new agencies in directing travel to Victoria. He also inspected the billboards maintained on the highways to the south, advising travelers to "Follow the Birds to Victoria," and arranged for the transfer of a number of the signs owing to the opening of new highways.

THROUGH PAVING

Completion of the stretch of paving on Highway 101, between Raymond, Wash., and the Columbia River, which has just been finished, combined with the approaching opening of the Golden Gate Bridge, will provide a continuous paved highway from San Francisco to Port Angeles, and linking up with Victoria by the regular ferry across the straits.

"I was much impressed by the development of recreational facilities along Highway 101, particularly through the efforts of the United States forestry department and the C.C.C. camps," said Mr. Warren.

Nineteen state parks have been developed along the coast route in Oregon alone, and the commissioner is of the opinion that this section of No. 101 will prove to be one of the outstanding tourist attractions of the Pacific Coast.

Four aerial landing fields have been built along the Oregon coast by the state and federal governments.

"This whole section to the south of us is humming with preparations to handle the tourists which are expected to come to Oregon and on to Victoria during the next few years," said Mr. Warren.

"Bill" Lee Dies On Salt Spring

There passed away suddenly yesterday at the family residence, Fulford Harbor, South Salt Spring Island, William Hudson "Bill" Lee, aged forty-eight years. He was born on Salt Spring Island, where he resided all his life, excepting during the period when he served in the Great War. He left Victoria in 1916 with the 62nd Battery, C.F.A., and in England was transferred. He transferred to the 58th Battery, with which he served as shoeing smith. He was one of the most popular members of that unit, his cheerfulness and good nature under the most trying conditions being a source of inspiration to his comrades. He returned to his farm on Salt Spring in 1919.

Mr. Yee is survived by his widow and two sons, Arthur and Elmer, at home, and six sisters, Mrs. William Muggeridge of Vancouver, Mrs. Bertha Farrington and Mrs. M. C. Sands of Victoria, Mrs. P. C. Mollett, Fulford; Mrs. Geo. Percy of Squamish, B.C., and Mrs. Charles Klien of Van Anda, B.C.

Funeral services will be conducted at the residence, Salt Spring Island, tomorrow afternoon at 1.30 o'clock. Rev. Thomas Keyworth will officiate, following which the remains will be laid at rest in the family plot in the St. Mary's Cemetery at Fulford Harbor. Sands Mortuary Limited are in charge of arrangements.

Mr. Lee was a member of the 15th Brigade, C.F.A., and attended the reunion of that unit in Victoria last May.

Displaying her well-filled pantry in a demonstration this week for club members, Mrs. W—— revealed that she has canned a total of five persons for a year's time.—Harlingen (Texas) paper.

That's enough to jar anybody.

CLIFFORD DENHAM

My Boyhood Ambition

A TRAIN DRIVER

It is a long cry from railroading to the theatre game, but when Clifford Denham, manager of the Dominion Theatre and one of western Canada's leading theatre executives, was a boy in Wales he wanted to be a railroad engineer.

"When I was coming home from school I could see the trains of the Great Western rushing by," he says in recalling his youth. "Somehow those trains fascinated me and I would stand watching them for hours. I decided then and there I wanted to be a railroad engineer and I didn't change my mind for some years."

The Denham family, however, moved from Wales to London and young Cliff got his first job with a big exhibition firm. That was his start in the theatrical business, and he has been with it ever since.

"Yes, I remember very well how I earned my first dollar," Mr. Denham said. "I kept pigeons when I was a youngster in Wales, and they brought me in my first revenue."

While Mr. Denham as a boy wanted to be a railroad engineer, he has never regretted choosing the theatre for his life's work. He thinks there are few businesses so interesting.

He has seen the theatre change tremendously in the last thirty years. At the turn of the century there were stage companies galore and great singers and players on the road. Mr. Denham booked many of them at the old Victoria Theatre and the Royal Victoria Theatre, and he is inclined to think those days of the theatre were more colorful. Today the movies have turned the theatre business inside out.

FIREMEN SEEK SHORTER WEEK

City Committee to Consider Move For New Legislation

Consideration of the application of the British Columbia Provincial Association of Fire Fighters for amendment of existing legislation covering hours, will be undertaken shortly by the city fire wardens, it was learned at the City Hall today.

The wardens have been informed of a proposal to have the hours of the firemen in all centres where they are on salary reduced to allow a full two days off each week.

The proposed amendment, which is expected to come before the fall session of the Legislature, is aimed, it was understood, at bringing Victoria and other municipalities with paid departments more closely into line with Vancouver, where the force enjoys special prerogatives.

Vancouver firemen, officials here said, already enjoy the sixty-hour week.

NEW PROPOSALS

Dealing with that provision, the draft suggests amendment to include with Vancouver, "any other place in which there is a paid fire department."

The proposed draft includes a substitutional clause on the hours of labor for that at present in force. The suggested new clause reads:

"In every municipality or place to which this act applies, each officer and each employee of the fire department of such municipality or place shall be off duty for two full days of twenty-four hours each in each week, in addition to the periods during which he is off duty under the provisions of the Fire Departments Two-platoon Act."

Albino Loon Rare Specimen

"It is only the second one I've even seen," said Francis Kermode, director of the provincial museum, on receipt of an albino specimen of the Great Northern diver or loon to add to the museum's nature treasures.

The loon, with pink eyes, white all over the body except for slight brown markings on the back of the wings, was presented by H. E. Hillier of Ucluelet. Strangely enough, the other albino loon, presented to the museum in 1899 was also caught at Ucluelet by W. J. Sutton.

Voters' List To Close This Month

The civic voters' list will close on October 31, M. F. Hunter, returning officer, said today in urging those who have not yet assured themselves of the franchise to register without delay.

Householders and licensees were particularly warned to make sure they were on the rolls if they desired to vote.

On November 14 a draft copy of the voters' list will be posted for public perusal at the City Hall. The court of revision will sit on November 20 to consider changes, and copies of the complete list will be available about November 26, Mr. Hunter said.

Obituary

TOM TINGGIN

The death occurred on Monday at the home of her son, Ruby Road, Gordon Head, of Tom Tinggin, wife of Lee John Ming, in her sixty-first year, her late residence being 555 Cormorant Street. She was born in Hosan, Canton, China, and had been living in Victoria for over thirty years. The funeral will be held at a date to be announced later.

JOHN SCOULAR McEACHEN

Private funeral services were held yesterday afternoon for John Scoular McEachen, who passed away on Saturday at Fulford Harbor. Rev. Dr. W. G. Wilson officiated and interment was in Royal Oak Burial Park. The following acted as pallbearers: Jack McEachen, Winnipeg, eldest son of the deceased; James McEachen, Vancouver; J. T. Calder, Fulford Harbor; H. A. Blakey, D. C. Diespecker and Alexander Thompson, all of Victoria.

MARGARET BUSBY

Many sympathizing friends attended the last rites held in Christ Church Cathedral this morning for Miss Margaret Busby. Dean Quainton conducted the service, during which the hymns "O Love That Will Not Let Me Go" and "Abide With Me," and the 23rd Psalm were sung. The casket and hearse were covered with beautiful flowers. The pallbearers were Major H. C. Holmes, Dr. S. W. Miles, Ronald Doull, D. J. Hayhurst, Richard F. Davy and Walter S. Miles. The remains were forwarded this afternoon to Vancouver for cremation.

HERBERT BRAZIER

Many sorrowing friends attended funeral services yesterday afternoon for Herbert Brazier, 43 South Turner Street. Rev. E. O. Robathan officiated during which the hymn "O Love That Will Not Let Me Go" and a solo, "Still Will We Trust," were sung. Many members of the P.P. C.L.I., as well as representatives of the Pro Patria Branch, Canadian Legion, and the Women's Auxiliary, were present. The remains were laid to rest in the Royal Oak Burial Park. The following acting as pallbearers: Edward Roelofson, A. C. Rogers, A. D. Bennett, Thomas O'Neill, J. Cowen and F. A. Holden.

GLADYS ELLINGTON BLAKE

At the family residence, The Sunset Seed Farm, Telegraph Road, Keating, yesterday afternoon, the death occurred of Mrs. Gladys Ellington Blake, wife of Frank O. Blake. Mrs. Blake was born in Blackheath, near London, England, and had been a resident of Victoria and district since 1917. She is survived by her husband, one son, Arthur; also her mother, Mrs. A. M. Hall-Wright; two brothers, H. E. Hall-Wright of this city, and H. H. Gibson, Hartford, Conn.; and three sisters, Beatrice E. Hall-Wright, Victoria, and Vida E. Cooper, New York, and Mrs. F. J. Warth, Reading, England. The remains are resting at McCall Bros.' Funeral Home, and the funeral will take place on Thursday afternoon at the Seventh Day Adventist Church, Graham Street, at 3 o'clock. Elder G. Johnston will conduct the service, after which interment will be in Royal Oak Burial Park.

MARY ANN ROSS

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Ann Ross, 1216 Styles Street, will be held Friday afternoon, the cortege proceeding from S. J. Curry & Son Funeral Home, at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, where the Rev. James Hyde will officiate at 2.30 o'clock. The remains will be laid to rest in the family plot at Ross Bay Cemetery.

CHARLES ERIC SMITH NEILL

Charles Eric Smith Neill of Nicholson Road, Saanich, passed away last night in the Royal Jubilee Hospital, aged fifty-three years. He was born in Brighton, England, and served overseas during the Great War as a lieutenant in the Sixteenth Battalion, C.E.F. He was for some years manager of the California Yacht Club before coming to Victoria five months ago. Funeral services will be held from Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will be in Colwood Burial Park.

WILLIAM H. GRANT

A large congregation paid its last tribute of respect yesterday afternoon at the funeral of William H Grant, who passed away in this city on October 17. He had been a resident of Victoria for fifty years, and many old-time friends gathered to pay their respects. The beautiful floral tributes testified to the esteem in which he was held. Canon J. Hinchliffe conducted the service, during which the hymns, "O God Our Help in Ages Past" and "Jesu, Lover of My Soul," were sung. The following acted as pallbearers: H. E A. Courtney, J. R. Saunders, William J. Cave, Fred A. Wills, A. V. Clarke and R. H. Shanks. The remains were laid at rest in the family plot in Ross Bay Cemetery.

Fewer Get Aid But Costs Rise

With Smaller Number of Family Units Gaining Relief, Charges Increase

While the average number of family units drawing relief in the city for the first eight months of this year stood forty-three below the average for the similar period in 1935, actual cost of relief up to the end of August this year stood $14,345 above those for the 1935 months, figures obtained from the city relief department today showed.

Last year the average number of city families drawing relief for each month of the first two-thirds of the year was 894 units against 927 up to the end of August in 1935. The costs in that department for the first eight months of this year are listed at $209,294, against $194,949 for the similar period in 1935.

Contributing factors in increased costs included the boost in fees paid doctors for relief cases, raised from a monthly average of slightly over $400 in 1935 to $850 a month during 1936, as well as the inclusion in the relief lists here of a clothing allowance which for the month of July stood at $1,385. No allowance was made last year for clothing of relief units by the city, any wearing apparel having been given by independent charitable associations. In addition to those charges, the city this year allowed an additional $10,000 for relief work.

Last year the government contributed to costs of relief for city families on a ration of 60 per cent to 40 per cent. This year the city only pays 20 per cent, but the additional charges for relief and the fact that many more cases have been declared unemployable by the government and sent onto the city lists entirely, have minimized to a considerable extent the improvement in the ratio of relief granted by the government for 1936.

Announcements

BORN

BUCKLE—To Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Buckle (nee Garrard), 3478 Bethune Avenue, on October 18, at Royal Jubilee Hospital, a son.

DIED

MILADY—On Monday, October 19, at St. Joseph's Hospital, Rosanna (Rose) Milady, aged forty years, wife of Thomas Milady of 603 Manchester Road. The late Mrs. Milady was born in Halifax, N.S., and had resided here for seven years. She is survived by her husband and one daughter, Miss Joyce; also her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Dooley of Alder Street, Saanich, and a niece, of Manchester Road.
The funeral will take place on Thursday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, from McCall Bros.' Funeral Home. Rev. F. W. McKinnon, assisted by Rev. E. W. Horton, will conduct the service, after which interment will be in Colwood Burial Park.

LEE—There passed away, suddenly, yesterday, October 20, at the family residence, Fulford Harbor, South Salt Spring Island, William Hudson (Bill) Lee, aged forty-eight years; born on Salt Spring Island, where he resided all his life, excepting when he served in the Great War, leaving Victoria in 1916 with the 62nd Battery, C.F.A., and in England he was transferred to the 56th Battery, where he was shoeing smith, and returned home in 1919. The late Mr. Lee is survived by his sorrowing wife, and two sons, Arthur and Elmer, at home; six sisters, Mrs. William Muggeridge of Vancouver, Mrs. P. C. Mouat, Fulford Harbor, Mrs. Bertha Farrington and Mrs. M. C. Sands of Victoria, Mrs. George Percy of Squamish, B.C., and Mrs. Charles Klien of Van Anda, B.C.
Funeral services will be conducted at the residence, Salt Spring Island, on Thursday, October 22, 1936, at 1.30 o'clock. The Rev. Thomas Keyworth will officiate, following which the remains will be laid at rest in the family plot in the St. Mary's Cemetery at Fulford Harbor. Sands Mortuary Ltd. are in charge of arrangements.

BLAKE—At the family residence, "The Sunset Seed Farm," Telegraph Road, Keating, on Tuesday afternoon, Gladys Ellington Blake, wife of Frank O. Blake. The late Mrs. Blake was born in Blackheath, near London, England, and had been a resident of Victoria and district since 1917. She is survived by, besides her husband, one son, Arthur; also her mother, Mrs. A. M. Hall-Wright; two brothers, H. E. Hall-Wright of this city and H. H. Gibson of Hartford, Conn., and three sisters, Beatrice E. Hall-Wright of Victoria, Vida E. Cooper of New York and Mrs. F. J. Warth of Reading, England.
The remains are resting at McCall Bros.' Funeral Home and the funeral will take place on Thursday afternoon from the Seventh Day Adventist Church, Graham Street, Victoria, at 3 o'clock. Elder G. Johnston will conduct the service, after which interment will be in Royal Oak Burial Park.

ROSS—At the family residence, 1216 Styles Street, there passed away Tuesday, October 20, Mary Ann Ross, aged seventy-eight years. Born in Dunvegan County, Ontario, the late Mrs. Ross had resided in this city for the last fifty-three years. She was a valued member of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church and her passing will be keenly felt by a very wide circle of friends. She leaves in sorrow four sons, George, Alec, Stanley and Wallace, and two daughters, Mrs. A. G. Lough and Mrs. W. H. Moore, and seven grandchildren.
Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon, October 23, the cortege leaving the S. J. Curry & Son Funeral Home, proceeding to St. Paul's Church, where Rev. James Hyde will officiate at 2.30 o'clock. Interment will be in the family plot at Ross Bay Cemetery.

MEN LOVE PEPPY GIRLS

You Can Become Peppy This Easy Way

If you are happy and peppy and full of fun, men will take you places. If you are lively, they will invite you to dances and parties.

BUT, if you are cross and lifeless and always tired out, men won't be interested in you. Men don't like "quiet" girls. Men go to parties to enjoy themselves. They want girls along who are full of pep.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND helps give you pep and energy. For over sixty years girls and women have been taking this famous old medicine to pep them up . . . to help give them strength, energy, sparkle. Notice the girls and women about you who are full of pep. Ask them what makes them peppy. If they are honest, many of them will give the credit to LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND. You should give LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND a try. Girls with pep are more attractive to men.

Two Sentenced By New Judge

Judge Shandley Grants John McLean's Request For Longer Term

Sentences of two years in the penitentiary and two months in jail were imposed on John McLean and Robert Watson respectively in County Court yesterday by Judge H. H. Shandley. McLean was also given two months, to run concurrently with the longer sentence.

The pair were convicted and sentenced to the shorter terms on charges of retaining in their possession fishing tackle stolen from George Patton.

McLean was convicted on a second charge of breaking and entering the Colwood Service Station, with intent to steal. Following evidence given at the morning session, Inspector Roger Peachey of the Provincial Police finger print department, identified prints on glass in the broken door of the service station as those of McLean.

Judge Shandley imposed a sentence of eighteen months on the latter charge, but changed it to two years at the request of the accused, who asked to be sent to the penitentiary.

Neither of the men offered a defence, but McLean stated he was intoxicated at the time of the theft, and did not know what he was doing. Both had previous records.

The cases were the first of a criminal nature tried by Judge Shandley.

Ekins Lands at Alameda On Way Around World

Almost 8,000 miles ahead of his two rivals in a race around the world, H. R. Ekins, Scripps-Howard newspaper reporter, reached Alameda, Calif., aboard the giant Hawaii Clipper of the Pan-American Airways. The next to the last "leg" of his flight, from Manila, was made as the first paying passenger on the trans-Pacific flight route. Ekins, in civilian clothes and wearing a hat, is seen going ashore when the clipper docked. He reached New York yesterday, a trifle over eighteen and a half days after he left that city.

ATLAS THEATRE

As seldom as it is for an actor to win fame in one screen role, it is even rarer for an author to establish himself with a single novel. Richard Sherman accomplished this difficult feat with "To Mary—With Love," his first literary effort, which is now at the Atlas Theatre, starring Warner Baxter and Myrna Loy.

DOMINION THEATRE

The funniest husband and wife in pictures, Charlie Ruggles and Mary Boland, are together again for the eleventh time in a delightful comedy of a great love which almost goes wrong, "Wives Never Know," which is now being shown at the Dominion Theatre.

Aiding and abetting in the general merriment is suave Adolphe Menjou

BRITISH FARMERS ASK MORE AID

Canadian Press from Havas

London, Oct. 21. — Increased government aid for British agriculture and larger wheat production were advocated by the council of the Central Chamber of Agriculture at a meeting here yesterday.

The council discussed adoption of a "long term" policy by the government toward agriculture, a course which was advocated by Vernon Malcolmson, president of the chamber.

The council held aid should be brought to agriculture through protective tariffs aimed at adjusting the cost of production and detail.

A resolution stipulating "the amount of wheat grown should increase from 6,000,000 quarters to 9,000,000 quarters as an incentive to home production" was voted (a quarter is equivalent to eight bushels).

Vancouver, Oct. 21.—A peach stone lodged in his throat caused the death of Louis P. Webb in a hospital here on Saturday, a week after he had been injured by an automobile, it was learned yesterday following an autopsy performed by Dr. A. W. Hunter.

Webb was injured when two automobiles collided and one rolled over, pinning him to the sidewalk. It was thought at first his death was due to injuries suffered in the accident.

After finding the peach stone in Webb's throat, Dr. Hunter investigated and found he had been eating fruit on Saturday and apparently had swallowed the pit.

London Critic Praises Pianist

Ernest Newman, eminent critic of The London Times, writes in high praise of Gertrude Huntly Green, Canadian pianist, who will appear under the auspices of the Victoria Musical Art Society tomorrow evening at the Empire Theatre.

Mr. Newman, writes in part: "Gertrude Huntley Green, Canadian pianist who gave a first recital here recently, has an extraordinary technique . . . the Schumann Toccata could not have been carried through with more vitality to the end or a finer shading, in spite of the tremendous speed. . . That she is capable of the poetic as well as the brilliant was shown by her playing of Godowsky's cunningly wrought "Garden of Buitenzorg" 'and a Nocturne of Medtner. . . . Miss Huntly gave us a good deal of Godowsky's music, and she evidently has a very intimate feeling for his thoroughly individual piano texture."

COLUMBIA THEATRE

PLAZA THEATRE

"Smilin' Through"—Norma Shearer's greatest picture—brought back by public demand, is now being shown at the Plaza Theatre.

Popular Stars Now at the Capitol

Robert Montgomery, Madge Evans and Ralph Forbes, shown above in a scene from "Piccadilly Jim," which is now the feature attraction at the Capitol Theatre.

FINE CAST IN CAPITOL FILM

Robert Montgomery, Madge Evans and Billie Burke Star in "Piccadilly Jim"

Hollywood has learned to choose the best of stories and select the best material in them for its pictures.

This was demonstrated when Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's screen adaptation of "Piccadilly Jim" came to the Capitol Theatre today. The words of P. G. Wodehouse in the story made the whole reading world rock with laughter. The picture visualizes his comedy perfectly.

A stellar cast is worthy of the inimitable story and the selection of its personnel was itself a stroke of genius. Robert Z. Leonard, the man who directed "The Great Ziegfeld," followed with this new picture and his technique is evident throughout.

Robert Montgomery, in the title role, performs what is considered his finest part. Madge Evans is cast opposite him. Frank Morgan of "The Great Ziegfeld" cast, appears with Billie Burke, widow of the famous Broadway impresario, in her first role under her new M-G-M contract. Eric Blore, Robert Benchley, Ralph Forbes and others give remarkably good performances in their respective roles.

"Piccadilly Jim" definitely established itself on its opening night as one of the most popular screen plays to reach this city in recent years. It is amusement of a high order, with no other purpose, and it succeeds admirably.

Astaire, Rogers Coming Saturday

Jerome Kern's music is heard in the new Fred Astaire-Ginger Rogers musical, "Swing Time," coming Saturday to the Capitol Theatre.

With Victor Moore, Helen Broderick and Eric Blore, Betty Furness and George Metaxa blending their brilliant talents to the resulting comedy and romance, the RKO Radio feature traces the romantic turmoil raised by a young dancing instructress who pursues an apparently bashful young man in ardent leap year fashion only to find that his reluctance to return her attentions is due to a carefully hidden fiancee.

Don Cossacks Once Prisoners

For fifteen months, in the dreaded prison camp of Tscherlinger, near Constantinople, the members of the Don Cossack Chorus, who will appear in concert in Victoria at the Empire Theatre, on Monday, November 2, were forced to live on a diet that would hardly be recommended by the most ardent faddist of weight reducing.

The daily rations, which never varied, were as follows: Black bread, 500 grs.; canned meat, 200 grs.; beans, 100 grs.; margarine, 20 grs.; one bouillon cube, 50 grs.; sugar, 20 grs.; tea, 7 grs.; salt, 20 grs.; and one piece of wood, 600 grs., for cooking.

It is small wonder that only 7,000 of the original 80,000 survived when release finally came through the efforts of the League of Nations after many long months.

OAK BAY THEATRE

This evening the Oak Bay Theatre offers a programme of amusement with Shirley Temple in "The Littlest Rebel" and a riotous comedy, "Miss Pacific Fleet," with Joan Blondell and Glenda Farrell. As the tiny confederate who surrounds the Yanks with smiles, astounds them with songs and defeats them with dances, Shirley Temple scores one of her greatest screen successes in "The Littlest Rebel." Her songs include "Polly Wolly Doodle" and "If All Thy Endearing Young Charms."

Upward Trend In Quiet Trading On Wall St. Market

Associated Press

New York, Oct. 21. — Mo[illegible] specialties led the stock ma[illegible] a quiet recovery move today pushed up some of the favorites 1 to 3 or more points, several to new five-year peaks.

While gains predominated at the close, steels, utilities and an assortment of recent leaders were inclined to hang back. Transfers were around 1,700,000 shares.

The market apparently discovered selective rallying fuel in the flood of highly satisfactory third quarter company reports and other business news.

At the same time the darkening European picture was believed to have inspired a more careful attitude toward new commitments on the part of usually active traders. Brief selling intervals also tended to restrict the volume.

Bonds were a bit uneven, as were commodities and foreign currencies. Wheat at Chicago was ¼ of a cent a bushel lower to as much improved, and corn was up ¼ to ⅝.

SMALL GAINS AT MONTREAL

Canadian Press

Montreal, Oct. 21.—The stock market staged a creeping recovery today and managed to post a number of small advances.

Gains of as much as ¾ were recorded for Nickel, Noranda and Smelters. Hollinger was steady.

Late demand sent Canada Cement up around ¾ to a new peak of 11⅞. Gypsum and Dominion Bridge firmed narrowly.

Winnipeg, Oct. 21.—Moderate export sales proved insufficient on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today to prevent easiness in wheat prices. The close was ⅝ to ⅜ cent lower, October and November at 1.11½, December 1.09 and May 1.09⅞ to 1.10.

Irregularity prevailed throughout the quiet session. Liberal selling from Chicago interests, which involved the sale of Winnipeg futures against purchases in the United States market, more than offset the export-sales support.

Wheat sold for movement abroad today totaled an estimated 500,000 bushels.

Liverpool, weak at the opening, closed 1⅛d to ⅝d higher. Buenos Aires, which at the start was ⅝ cent higher, was a half-cent lower at noon. Chicago was steady most of the day.

With demand improved for higher grades of wheat, spreads firmed in the cash-grains division. Coarse grains prices eased in late dealings.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—Late reactions after about a cent a bushel advance today more than wiped out gains in the Chicago wheat market.

Only hand-to-mouth buying of wheat on the part of importing countries was apparent. Total new export business in Canadian wheat was estimated at but 600,000 bushels.

Wheat closed irregular, ¼ lower to ¼ higher compared with yesterday's finish. December 1.14¼ to 1.14⅜, May 1.13⅛ to 1.13¾; corn ¼ to ⅝ up, December 93¾ to 93⅞, May 89½ to 89⅝; oats at ⅛ decline to ⅛ gain, and provisions varying from 5 cents setback to a rise of 2 cents.

MIXED TREND ON BOND MART

Associated Press

New York, Oct. 21.—The bond market traced an irregular course today with a number of corporate issues working toward recovery of yesterday's losses.

United States governments settled to slightly lower levels in early dealings.

Cuban 5½s, Buenos Aires 4⅛ to 4⅜, and Poland 8s climbed about ½ each, while French stamped 7½s, Poland 6s and Uruguay 6s yielded like ground.

LONDON MARKET

London, Oct. 21.—Oil stocks were active and strong in today's market and prices generally closed firm. Tobacco, steel and motor issues continued in fair demand, while copper shares held steady. Trans-Atlantic and gilt-edged securities declined and a heavy tone also prevailed in foreign bonds. The taking of profits was noticeable at the close.

London, Oct. 21.—Quietness prevailed in the foreign exchange market today. The United States dollar was unchanged and closed at $4.89⅛ to the pound, which compared with the overnight New York rate of $4.89.

The French franc finished at 105.12 francs to the pound against 105.09 yesterday.

Tarzan And the Leopard Men

When the three Leopard Men sprang toward Tarzan, Old Timer and the Kid had a clear opening to escape. But they were not the kind to let someone else bear the brunt of their battles. With eager fists they sailed into the two of their captors nearest them.

The savages, unaccustomed to this American method of fighting, dropped under a rain of lightning, skilful blows. The third, foreseeing his doom, turned and fled. Tarzan followed, to capture the fugitive and gain more information about the evil Leopard Clan.

But hardly had he begun his pursuit when Kkima appeared suddenly in a tree above him. In great excitement the little monkey was calling to him: "Tarzan! Master! Stop!" The ape-man halted and broke into an amused laugh at Nkima's frenzied antics.

"Nkima comes too late to help us fight," he hastened. "But Nkima does not come too late to save you!" the little monkey pronounced excitedly; "for there are many, many of the Men Leopard things nearby. They come this way. We must run, or they will kill!"

"Nerves" Used Too Often as an Alibi

Dorothy Dix

People Always Seeking Excuses

WHAT IS YOUR FAVORITE ALIBI? We all have them, you know. None of us have the courage of our sins nor the honesty to admit our shortcomings, so we hide behind a smoke screen and lay our weakness upon circumstances or heredity or luck or other people or what have you.

Women's favorite alibi is nerves. They are a blanket excuse that covers temper and selfishness, self-indulgence, indolence and all of their by-products. What the feminine sex would do without their "poor nerves," no one has imagination enough even to guess.

You never heard a woman admit she was a virago. When one flies into rages and rails like a fishwife, it is because something has upset her "delicate nerves." When a woman rears her children on the street and at her neighbors it isn't because she is too trifling and no account to shoulder her responsibilities. It is because her "poor nerves" cannot stand the racket that children make. When a woman has her husband so terrorized that he dare not open his mouth in his own house for fear of starting something, it isn't because she is mean and overbearing and tyrannical. It's just because she is "nervous." You have her own word for it.

The universal alibi for laziness is poor health with women, and temperament with men. Did you ever see either a woman or a man who acknowledged to being lazy, and confessed that the reason they sat down on the do-nothing stool and let other people support them was because they simply loathed to work? You never did. But on the contrary you know plenty of strong husky loafers who will tell you how they envy you your energy, and how they wish they had the vigor and strength to toil as you do, or that they had not been born so finely attuned that they cannot adjust themselves to a sordid commercial world.

A woman will say she knows that she looks strong, but looks are very deceptive and she finds she simply cannot get up in the morning and get her husband's breakfast and start the children off to school, so she just has to lock her door so they won't disturb her morning rest, without which she wouldn't be able to play bridge all afternoon. And, of course, it is never selfishness. It's their poor health that sends myriads of wives off to the mountains in the summer, and south in the winter, while their poor husbands slave to pay smart hotel bills.

It's not aversion to work. It's temperament that keeps thousands of men sponging on their friends and relatives. They will tell you with tears in their eyes that they long for work, but they simply cannot do everyday tasks. They must have work for which they are temperamentally fitted. Something spiritual that can be done when they are in the mood for it, and with big pay cheques attached, and as there are no such jobs they just let mother take in boarders to support them until some fool girl with a good job takes over the contract.

The alibi of the philanderer is that his wife does not understand him. It's never his fault that he is a petticoat chaser. He never admits that he is a poor weak creature who is totally lacking in loyalty and a sense of duty and self-control and sales resistance. No, he is a poor misunderstood lonely soul, married to a woman who does not sympathize with him or who is cold, and so he is driven to seek solace at night clubs with platinum blondes.

The alibi of the forsaken wife is The Other Woman. Nobody ever heard of a deserted wife who admitted to losing her husband through her own carelessness. The reason that her husband strayed away from his own fireside was never because she slumped and got slovenly or because she was a bad housekeeper or because she got peevish or fretful and nagging or because she got so dull she bored him to death. No. It is always because The Other Woman possessed mysterious powers of attraction with which no wife could contend.

The alibi of the divorced is the Other One. It's never the husband's fault when the marriage goes on the rocks. The wife is never to blame when the marriage goes blooey. Each will tell you that with elaborations. The husband won't say a word about his drinking too much or spending his money on other women or being as grumpy or grouchy as a sore-headed bear, but he will tell you all about his wife's extravagance and her fault-finding and how she kept the house cluttered up with her people.

The wife won't mention her extravagance or the mess she got in with a gigolo, or the kind of dinners she set before her husband, but she will hold forth at length how her husband neglected her and the row he made over the bills, and how he simply drove her to Reno.

And the alibi for all the unsuccessful is that they never had any luck. The reason they haven't got along is because they didn't get the breaks. Their never having the grit to stick to a hard job or put their backs and their brains into their work is never the reason that they are failures. It's just that they were unlucky.

We've all got our alibis for our faults and weaknesses. What is yours?

Uncle Wiggily's Wife's Hunt

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Mrs. Longears hopped over to her husband, spun him around like a top, looked him over from head to feet and said:

"Well, I don't see it anywhere."

"Of course you don't, my dear. It's lost. My lovely Christmas necktie you gave me is lost. Oh, dear!" Uncle Wiggily pretended to feel very sad. But, truth to tell (and you and I know it), he was very glad he had lost—on purpose—the red, blue, green, pink, yellow and purple tie his wife had given him for Christmas.

"Lost your necktie! Oh, Wiggy!" said Mrs. Longears turning him around and around again. "However did it happen?"

"There is no use looking me over," said the rabbit gentleman sort of impatient like and apprehensive. "The necktie isn't anywhere around me."

For a moment he thought perhaps after loosening the tie, as he had done so it would fall off his neck when the Tramp Dog chased him, that the tie might have caught on the back of his coat. But it hadn't or Mrs. Longears would have seen it.

WIGGY, HOW DID IT HAPPEN?

"Well, it seems to be gone," sighed the lady rabbit. "But how did it happen. Sit down and tell me." So Uncle Wiggily sat down on his bungalow steps and said:

"I was chased."

"By one of the Bad Chaps?"

"No," said Mr. Longears, "not by one of the Bad Chaps, though he was bad enough, I suppose, in some ways. But I was chased by a Tramp Dog."

"Whyever did he chase you, Wiggy? Did you make faces at him or anything like that?"

"You know I don't make faces at Tramp Dogs," said Mr. Longears, sort of dignified like and hurt.

"No, Wiggy, you don't and that's a fact. But I can't imagine why a Tramp Dog should chase you."

"He had to chase somebody, didn't he?" asked the rabbit.

"I'm not so sure about that, my dear. But why did he have to pick you to chase?"

"There is no telling what a Tramp Dog will do," said Mr. Longears. "And now what are we going to have for supper?"

MRS. LONGEARS IS A SLEUTH

"Nurse Jane will see about supper," said Mrs. Longears. "Don't try to change the subject. I know you feel as badly about losing your Christmas tie as I do. But tell me more. Where did the dog chase you from?"

"From the woods almost here," said Mr. Longears. "I was running when I came within sight of my bungalow. You saw me, didn't you?"

"Yes. But I didn't see you lose the necktie."

"That must have happened away back in the woods. Soon after the dog began to chase me. I felt it slipping from my neck."

"How could the tie slip from your neck, Wiggy, if it was properly fastened on? I don't understand it."

"I don't myself," said Mr. Longears firmly. "All I know is that my tie must have become loose and it slipped off when I ran to get away from the dog. Now what did you say we had for supper?"

"Nurse Jane will give you and the children your supper," said the lady rabbit as she started off toward the woods.

"Where are you going?" asked her husband anxiously.

"I am going to hunt that Tramp Dog and get back your lost necktie," she said. "I'm sure he must have picked it up. Don't wait supper for me."

Away went the rabbit lady on the hunt. And if you will give the auto license plate a knife and fork so it can eat rubber pie, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's wife finding it.

HOROSCOPE

"The stars incline, but do not compel"

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1936

Through the business hours today benefic aspects rule strongly, according to astrology. It is a fortunate time for pushing both private and public enterprises.

Constructive work is stimulated under this sway, which is fortunate for builders, engineers, architects and manufacturers.

Women should keep in the background under this direction of the stars, for it tends to cause dissatisfaction with public affairs. Later they are to unite for reform measures and they will urge peace policies that antagonize legislators.

After midday, weddings should be lucky and the partnership enduring. Despite the prevalence of divorce astrologers foretell lasting marriages under this configuration.

Homes in small communities will now be sought by those who plan for the future, for cities are to be centres of conflict, it is foretold.

In the coming winter, extremes of human experience will be sharply contrasted with extravagant living on the one hand and bitter need on the other. Display and rich attire will be emphasized by the wealthy, who will spend money lavishly for luxuries.

This should be a profitable day for exporters and for American commerce generally. Great industries will be active in supplying machinery and manufactures of many sorts.

Under this rule of the stars candidates for legislative offices should be cautious in making promises; astrologers forecast conditions that will upset the best-laid plans of statesmen.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of fair prosperity and general progress. Much company in the home is foreshadowed.

Children born on this day probably will be exceedingly independent and unusually gifted. Subjects of this sign may gain lasting fame by exercising rare talents.

Sarah Bernhardt, actress, was born on this day, 1844. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include Leopold Damrosch, musician, 1832, and Franz Liszt, composer and pianist, 1811.

No Trophy For Ss. Queen Mary

Associated Press

London, Oct. 21.—Owners of the record-breaking liner Queen Mary are embarrassed. They are afraid they will be offered a cup.

Athough the ship won the trans-Atlantic blue ribbon, the Cunard-White Star Company issued a statement today saying the company does not want the Hales Trophy, which goes with it.

In fact, they would "feel obliged to refuse it if offered," the statement said.

The trouble is that directors of the line believe international trophy competition, as they say, "introduces an undesirable element into the operation of steamship services."

Cruise Liner Was Aground

Associated Press

Liverpool, Oct. 21.—The Cunard-White Star liner Lancastria with 454 cruise passengers aboard, was refloated yesterday after being grounded during a gale in the Mersey River.

The vessel, of 16,243 gross tons, was returning from a Mediterranean cruise.

The liner struck a sandy bottom. It was believed she suffered no serious damage.

Tugs stood by to assist the ship but no attempt was made to refloat her until the afternoon floodtide.

Prepare For Big Apple Movement

Ships Have Already Taken Many Carloads of British Columbia Fruit; Expect Bigger Season Than Last Year

Vancouver, Oct. 21. — For several weeks past the movement of British Columbia apples has been gradually developing for the 1936-37 season export flow to Europe, Asia, Africa and the Antipodes.

Last season's total export was 1,126,000 boxes. It is believed this season will see larger figures and a satisfactory angle is that prices are reported better.

Already some 200 carloads have been dispatched from the port of New Westminster, through whose gates moves the bulk of the British Columbia apples exported from this coast.

The fruit is carried by the modern refrigerator ships of thirteen deep-sea lines, giving regular service to this coast. They fly the flags of Great Britain, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, France, Germany, Holland and Italy.

ALREADY MOVING

Ss. Tudor Star of the Blue Star Line loaded the first considerable parcel for the United Kingdom about three weeks ago, taking twenty-eight carloads. Since then ships of this fleet have loaded another seventy carloads.

Motorships of the Royal Mail Line have also loaded apples, as have East Asiatic and Olsen Line vessels. B. W. Greer and Son's Ms. California Express is due October 26 to load twenty-four carloads. There is also a big parcel going out this week by the Donaldson freighter Moveria.

R. W. Tate of Vernon, who holds a deep-sea mate's certificate and was recently appointed inspector for the British Columbia Tree Fruit Board, is already being spoken of with commendation for the full co-operation he is exercising with them in carrying out his duties.

Alaska-Seattle Airplane Service

Seattle, Oct. 21.—Inaugurating a planned regular Seattle-Alaska passenger service by amphibian plane, pilot Don Glass arrived here yesterday with eight passengers from Anchorage, which they left Sunday at 10 a.m. An over-night stop was made at Alert Bay, B.C.

The flying time was 15 hours, 20 minutes, pilot Glass said.

Radio Operator Passes at Sea

Port of Spain, Trinidad, Oct. 21.—J. Dodds, radio operator on the steamship Stagpool, bound for Montreal, died while receiving a wireless diagnosis of his own case from a doctor on another ship passing in the Caribbean, it was related here today by officers of the steamship Nerissa.

According to the officers, Dodds was taken suddenly ill as the Stagpool sailed northward. As there was no doctor aboard he radioed the symptoms of his illness to the physician aboard the Nerissa. The ship doctor responded, but while receiving the message Dodds collapsed, and died with his headphones on.

Burial was made at sea, near St. Lucia.

Ship Charges Stated Untrue

Owner of Girl Pat Says He Did Not Seek to Bring About Loss of Vessel

London, Oct. 21.—Defence charges that owners of the trawler Girl Pat had sought to bring about the loss of the vessel in order to collect insurance were denied yesterday by John Moore, managing director of the Morstrand Fishing Company, owners of the trawler.

Moore testified at the second day of the trial at the Old Bailey of George Osborne, master of the Girl Pat, and his brother James, formerly of Toronto, who are charged with theft of the vessel.

Moore's testimony was corroborated by the company's assistant manager, Jack Vincent, who testified the company was in "perfectly sound condition."

Witness denied Osborne's statement that he had been told by his employers "to take the biggest voyage he had ever made" when he sailed off with the Girl Pat, first for West Africa, and then to Georgetown, British Guiana, where he was apprehended.

The trial is continuing.

FIERCE STORM STRIKES SHIP

Boatswain Drowned, Mate and Seaman Injured When Gale Struck Ss. Kildale

Montreal, Oct. 21.—Her boatswain drowned and the second mate held to his bunk with a battered leg, the British steamer Kildale reached Montreal yesterday after battling furious seas in a gale off Belle Isle, October 13.

The boatswain, S. Geirling of Whitby, Eng., was swept overboard in the gale that struck the Kildale and several other ships some 200 miles off the eastern coast and his companions, powerless to help, saw him bobbing in the rolling seas before he drowned.

Seamen told how their skipper, Captain A. J. Gale, put sixteen stitches into the head of able seaman D. Thomas, injured during the blow.

World's Beautiful Cities Are Listed

Sir Michael Sadler and Malcolm La Prade Agree on Eleven; Quebec Is Only City Chosen By Sadler on This Continent

New York, Oct. 21.—Naming the twenty most beautiful cities of the world would certainly tax the resources of the average tourist, but not so those inveterate world-travelers, Sir Michael Sadler, recently of Oxford University, and Malcolm La Prade of New York, widely known as the "Man from Cook's," both of whom have listed their choices.

Mr. La Prade's selection, drawn up at the request of Current History, is interesting in that it duplicates half of Sir Michael's original list, but differs widely in the remainder of the cities named. For example, Sir Michael overlooks the United States entirely, mentioning only one city of this continent—Quebec; whereas Mr. La Prade omits Quebec but finds New York and Washington deserving of high rating.

AGREE ON ELEVEN

The eleven cities on which the two experts agree are as follows: Paris, Istanbul (Constantinople), Rome, Vienna, Edinburgh, Nuremburg, The Hague, Budapest, Florence, Stockholm and Venice. Sir Michael then goes on to name Gothenbourg, Agra, Benares, Dijon, Angouleme, Quebec, Oxford, Bath and Athens. Mr. La Prade, on the other hand, lists as his other choices, New York, Washington, Brussels, Ddesden, Nice, Rio de Janerio, Naples, Prague and Geneva.

Neither list is arranged in order of attractiveness, and both authorities were careful to point out that their lists represent the world's most beautiful cities in a collective sense. Mr. La Prade has confined his list to cities of fairly large population, omitting smaller cities such as Angouleme or Dijon, or those cities whose chief bid to fame is a single edifice or a single street. "I have tried to consider the cities on broader lines," he said, "taking into consideration situation, surroundings, general appearance of streets and layout, exceptionally fine architecture and unique appearance."

From the point of view of La Prade, Paris, measured in terms of general planning, ranks first. For general situation, he believes Rio de Janeiro to be the most beautiful. And he is one of the growing number of travel authorities who accord New York and Washington high recognition from standpoints of attractiveness and beauty. The remarkably artistic layout of Washington, the arrangement of the streets, and the fine governmental buildings, have appealed to tourists and architects alike. As to New York, Mr. La Prade has this to say in choosing it: "Because of its modernistic skyline, its magnificent towers, its rivers and harbor, New York represents the city of the future. Altogether it is one of the world's most impressive sights." In his opinion, recent park and civic projects, additions to the skyline and improvement of its harbor, have made New York as attractive as it is cosmopolitan.

DEAD FLIER IS HONORED

Harmon Trophy Presented to Parents of Late Capt. Frederick Stevenson

Winnipeg, Oct. 21.—The Harmon Trophy awarded posthumously to the late Capt. Frederick Stevenson of Winnipeg was in possession of the aviator's parents today, nearly ten years after the flier was killed in a plane crash near the Pas, Manitoba.

The bronze medal, awarded by the Ligue Internationale des Aviateurs of Paris on behalf of the donor, Clifford B. Harmon, was presented yesterday to the flier's father, Joseph Stevenson, by Lieutenant-Governor W. J. Tupper. The medal had been mislaid several years ago.

Capt. Stevenson was the first Canadian to receive the award, recognizing his successful transportation of heavy freight by air into otherwise inaccessible areas of the Canadian northland. His work was described as playing an important part in hastening development of northern mineral areas.

Hon. R. L. Ralston, former Minister of National Defence, paid tribute to Capt. Stevenson's courage. He rejoiced in being present "to pay homage to an intrepid airman who gave his life to the cause of Canadian air transportation development."

Col. Ralston believed no greater heros had served Canada than the airmen who helped develop the north country.

It was the second big shipment of the season, the first amounting to about $600,000.

Birthday Will Be Celebrated

Canada's First Telegraph Company Will Have Ninetieth Anniversary

Toronto, Oct. 21.—Ninety years ago tomorrow the first telegraph company in Canada was formed, at Toronto, and a few days later active construction upon the pioneer wire line between Toronto and Hamilton was completed. In January the line was completed to Queenston, where there was a wire head from Buffalo and, within three months, Toronto was in active telegraphic communication with New York and other points.

The same year the Montreal Telegraph Company established communication between Montreal and Toronto and in 1852 purchased the initial Toronto company. The original site of the first telegraph office in Canada was what is now the St. Lawrence Market, but was then the City Hall and the location is now marked by a bronze plaque, erected by the historic sites and monuments board of Canada.

The original office was a small affair and had as its staff a manager and operator and a similar staff engaged in Hamilton. By the end of 1847 the Montreal Telegraph Company had 540 miles of wire in use, nine offices opened and 33,000 messages were sent. Great as was this one year's growth it pales into insignificance with the ultimate expansion nine decades later. Today, the Canadian National telegraphs operate 146,000 miles of wire and when the carrier current wires are taken into consideration, giving as many as twenty-four channels to one wire, or the equivalent of twenty-four wires in one, another 192,217 miles may be added.

In 1846, there were forty miles of wire. Ninety years later it spanned 23,822 miles, the original nine offices have increased to 1,708, and the 33,000 messages filed in the first year of telegraphic operation has been extended to more than 7,500,000. Press copy, which during the initial year of operation was an unknown quantity, now alone totals almost 40,000,000 words annually.

HONOR HEADS AT LUNCHEON

S. J. Hungerford and Other Directors of C.N.R. Are Speakers at Function

Montreal, Oct. 21.—Concluding a staff conference which opened at headquarters here Monday morning officers of the Canadian National Railways representing all departments and from all parts of the system met the members of the recently appointed board of directors at luncheon here yesterday. Introduced by S. J. Hungerford, chairman of the board, each of the new directors expressed confidence in the loyalty and ability of the officers and employees of the national system.

Following luncheon the chairman and executive officers of the system met the general chairman and representatives of organized labor of the national system. In opening the luncheon function Mr. Hungerford said it gave him threefold pleasure: First, in welcoming his fellow directors; second, in welcoming the officers of the system to the gathering, and third, as an employee welcoming his fellow employees of the Canadian National system.

Wilfred J. T. Gagnon, director, told assembled officers they would never have a board of directors so anxious to co-operate with them in making the system a success.

J. Y. Murdoch, K.C., said his fellow directors and staff were facing hard problems, which neither alone could solve.

H. J. Symington, K.C., director, referred to himself as an old employee, coming back to the Canadian National family. "The only question bothering you and your new board is how to improve the Canadian National Railways," said Mr. Symington.

Col. D. H. McDougall, director, expressed his "pride to be a member of the Canadian National family." He said he had a great respect for what had been accomplished since the system had been co-ordinated and worked into its present condition.

R. J. Moffatt, director, of Saskatchewan, said he could see a better future ahead of the railway system. "I am a newcomer to railways," he said "but I hope soon to feel at home here."

D. L. Daly, labor director of the board, said that as he was young as a director, he was old as an employee.

T. M. Spooner, general chairman of the B.L.F. and E., speaking on behalf of the labor representatives present at the luncheon, said nothing in recent years had pleased the employees more than the selection of S. J. Hungerford as chairman of the board.

SAILORS VOTE WHILE AT SEA

Results of Strike Vote Are Expected to Be Announced Sunday

Associated Press

San Francisco, Oct. 21.—Indefinite extension of a labor truce on Pacific Coast waterfronts appeared to be the immediate aim of federal representatives in conferences with employers and union leaders here today.

Associates of Rear-admiral Harry G. Hamlet, investigator for the United States maritime commission, said he was urging continued operations under 1934 strike award agreements.

The seven maritime unions, with a total membership of 37,000, proceeded with a referendum that would, if carried, give their joint negotiating committee authority to call a strike October 28.

Results of the strike vote, in which polls on ships at sea are being taken by wireless, are expected to be announced Sunday.

The grain-laden steamer Oregon, tied up at Portland by a labor dispute since Thursday, sailed yesterday evening for the Canal Zone after the Sailors' Union provided a crew. The original crew had demanded a guarantee of transportation back to Portland in the event of a strike.

Joseph Curran, east coast "rank and file" seamen's leader, arrived here yesterday evening from New York. He said he came with assurances that seamen of eastern and gulf ports will support the Pacific marine unions in whatever action they take.

At Seattle Dewey Bennett, union secretary, said 1,200 longshoremen yesterday evening heard representatives from San Francisco describe coast maritime labor issues preparatory to voting today and tomorrow on the strike authorization proposal.

He said the speakers made no recommendations on how I.L.A. members were to vote. He said Seattle vote results will be announced in San Francisco.

Admiral King-Hall Is Called By Death

Canadian Press

London, Oct. 21. — Admiral Sir Herbert Goodenough King-Hall, seventy-four, on the retired list since 1922, died yesterday. His active naval service covered forty-seven years. He joined the navy in 1875. He was decorated for his services at the bombardment of Alexandria and the Egyptian War in 1882.

Admiral Sir Herbert King-Hall was born at Falmouth, March 15, 1862, the youngest son of the late Admiral Sir William King-Hall. In 1905 he was married to Lady Mabel Murray, sister of the fifth Earl of Mansfield.

In 1894, the admiral, then in command of H.M.S. Magpie, served in the expedition against the Mandingoes off Gambia.

During the South African War he served as naval transport officer in Natal. From 1908 to 1909 he was naval A.C.D. to the King.

As commodore, he took the late King George, then Prince of Wales, to Canada in 1908. From 1909 to 1911 he was director of naval mobilization at the Admiralty. He was commander-in-chief of the Cape of Good Hope station from 1912 to 1915, and while in that position directed operations resulting in the destruction of the German cruiser Koenigsberg, from 1918 to 1919 he was the admiral commanding in the Orkneys and the Shetlands.

VESSEL SAILS

Portland, Oct. 21.—The grain-laden steamer Oregon, tied up by a labor dispute since last Thursday, sailed yesterday for Colon, Panama Canal Zone.

A crew was supplied after the Sailors' Union voted to rescind a decision not to man the vessel. A representative of the local announced acceptance of the judgment of two federal inspectors that the ship was both seaworthy and sanitary.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of lower low water.

Aberhart Hears Press Protest

Alberta Weeklies Ask Premier Start Suits Or End General Accusations

Canadian Press

Edmonton, Oct. 21. — Protests against Premier Aberhart's general denunciations of the press of Alberta have been sent to his office by the provincial division of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association.

H. T. Halliwell of Coleman, Alta., president of the association, yesterday made public a letter he had written to the Premier complaining against Mr. Aberhart hurling blanket charges against the press. It suggested the Premier take action against the papers he considered offending against his code of ethics or refrain from the attacks.

RESOLUTION ON OCTOBER 10

The letter, as released by Halliwell, read in part as follows:

"On October 10, a copy of a resolution was forwarded to you from the annual convention of Alberta division of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association, urging you take action against newspapers which you accuse of telling lies in connection with your policies.

"So far no acknowledgment has been received of this resolution, but instead you continue your misrepresentation against all newspapers, when the way is open to you to effect a remedy without inflaming public opinion in an unjustifiable manner against newspaper publishers, who on the whole are as keenly interested in good government as all other citizens. . . .

SAY FACTS IGNORED

"Your attacks on the press as a whole are grossly inconsistent with the facts, for the great majority of weekly newspapers have given fair and accurate news reports of all Social Credit activities, have maintained the dignity of the office of Premier and have extended the same courtesies to your party as to other political parties. They maintain they have the right to express their editorial opinions just as freely as your opinions are expressed, and the newspaper columns of all newspapers have been open to those who wish to write letters to the press, both Social Crediters and those opposed to your theories.

"I trust you will either refrain from your continued misrepresentation of the press, or take definite action against those newspapers which you claim are telling lies."

Savinien Cyrano de Bergerac, leading character of Rostand's play, was a real person. He was a French author, who died in 1655. Rostand's play is true to facts in many ways.

When Nerves Scream Tonic Is Essential

Nerves Need Nourishment to Bring Fitness

When your nerves get the better of you so that even trifles seem to grow into tremendous annoyances, your nerves are really crying out for nourishment. At such times, particularly, you will find the great British tonic, PHOSFERINE, a tremendous blessing.

"PHOSFERINE," writes Mrs. M. Huggett, Islington, England, "has been of great benefit to me in overcoming a feeling of weakness, with inability to concentrate; also for neuralgia. I think PHOSFERINE is the ideal tonic for anyone run-down. Just an occasional dose keeps me in splendid health."

PHOSFERINE is concentrated nourishment for the nerves. It helps you, quickly, to pick up lost energy and vigor. Start taking PHOSFERINE today. Before the week is out you will have found new endurance, you'll sleep better, eat better and look as good as you feel. At all druggists, 50c, $1.00 (4 times as much), $1.50 (8 times as much). Advt.
